After Three Centuries, Nassau Street's Width Is Still Disputed

It seems incredible that the width of Nassau Street, Princeton's 300-year-old main thoroughfare, still is a matter for dispute, but such is the case.

Although the problem goes back to 18th-century engineering practices, it's not merely a quaint subject for lamp-lit study. For one thing, the Bellows store is suing Princeton Borough officials and the width of Nassau is involved in the suit.

The Regional Planning Board has asked Borough Mayor and Council to resolve the width by amending the zoning ordinance, but the Borough attorney says flatly that this is not possible.

And in an effort to get the width laid down once and for all, the Princeton Bar Association, the Princeton Real Estate Group and possibly the Mercer County Bar Association (whose president is the Borough attorney) will ask this session of the state legislature to pass a law fixing the width at 66 feet.

So it looks as though the lawyers, and not the engineers, will have the final say.

Once King's Highway, Nassau Street used to be the King's Highway. Today, it's the State's Highway and highway officials have tenaciously maintained for years that the correct width is 99 feet -- just like every other King's Highway in the colonies.

Bellows' attorney, A. C. Reeves Hicks, pointed out to the planning board last week that a 99-foot width would put the Nassau Street line inside virtually every store on the street -- Cox's pants and Davidson's light bulbs and Nassau Interiors' lamps, to say nothing of Bellows' pants suits, would all be out in the street, so to speak.

These odd-sounding figures -- 66 feet and 99 feet -- have precise meaning. They represent the 18th-century use of the rod as the unit of linear measurement. A rod is 16 1/2 feet. A 66-foot-wide road is four rods; a 99-foot-wide road is six rods.

School Budget Hearing Surprisingly Tranquil

A school budget hearing that lasts only an hour and a half? Sounds like the most unlikely event of the year. But on Tuesday night, fewer than 100 citizens scattered themselves around the Princeton High auditorium, asked polite questions after a school board presentation which spelled out information a lot of people had already read in the "statement" mailed, and trailed off for home around 9:30.

The $7,403,900 budget will be adopted formally by the school board at the public agenda session in John Witherspoon School next Tuesday.

Princeton residents will cast yes or no budget votes at the election on February 2. If defeated, the budget will go directly to municipal governing bodies for action. There will be no second public vote.

Programs? The major question raised at the hearing, according to board president John Marks, came from Mrs. Dietrich Meyerhoffer, 29 Shadybrook Lane, who wanted to know about specific programs.

"What about such programs as Driver's Ed?" she asked. "Is that in the budget? How about the Stokes trip? These things should be part of the presentation. All year long we hear about priorities" but there is never a time when all the priorities are brought together for a discussion."

"I agree with you," Dr. Marks said, "the budget hearing would be an appropriate time to discuss priorities."

He explained that board and school administration weren't geared to detailed explanation this year. The budget up for examination and for February vote, is a "bold line" budget without much in the way of new programs to discuss.

"Maybe" on Driver's Ed, Eugene Bringer, Associate Superintendent, said there was money for "environmental education," which might turn out to be right here in Princeton, perhaps in Herrington Woods.

Census Finds More People

The Governor has not yet proclaimed, but advance reports of New Jersey's final census count have been received by the Legislature.

Princeton Borough has picked up 339 more citizens and Princeton Township 197, according to the revised and refined figures.

This gives the Borough 12,311—it wasn't over the 12,000 mark before—and the Township 13,631.

The revision won't affect assignments on the Regional School Board; the Borough will still lose one seat to the Township.

or the former Girl Scout camp rather than in Stokes State Forest. This would save some money, Mr. Bringer said and might bring younger children into the program.

Driver's ed is still more or less in the garage; it has not been specifically budgeted, but as Dr. Marks explained in a preamble to the hearing, this doesn't mean it won't happen next year.

Budget Is Guide. In those introductory remarks, the board president explained that the budget was a "plan" to be followed exactly or varied, as the board might decide. This

"The staff has been alerted to adjustments we'll have to make when the 400 sending students leave," Mr. Pike continued. "But we normally have about a 20% staff turn over each year, so nobody's going to be fired."

He explained that, if pupils were shifted to different buildings, teachers might be, too. Also, kids "disappear" after elementary school and Middle School, presumably headed for private schools. The economic situation may keep more of them in Princeton, Mr. Pike suggested.

"We expect teacher adjustment to affect a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 20 teachers," he estimated.

Mr. Cronin also eyed the reserve fund and asked whether "we over-extended" on the last budget? Mr. Pike said the board plans to keep $200,000 in reserve, perhaps to implement some Long Range recommendations.

Questioned by Mr. Cronin about a $31,000 increase in insurance, board secretary and business manager William Evans said that Social Security levies are going up; property insurance premiums have increased by $10,000; health insurance was negotiated into staff contracts a year ago and higher salaries mean increased workmen's compensation.

Mr. Cronin suggested that insurance coverage for better premiums, and Mr. Evans said he'd explore the possibilities.

Salary Vote Proposed. The largest item in the budget is salaries. Because negotiations are still going on, the board hasn't revealed the amount set aside for salary increases. Mr. Cronin asked whether the budget, minus salaries, could be voted on and the salaries subjected later to a referendum.

Mr. Pike said that technically it was possible, but that timing was a factor and it would mean the cost of one more election.

Answering a question on Princeton per-pupil compared to other districts, Mr. Pike said, "Our per-pupil costs reflect the breadth of our program."

He explained that per-pupil costs are a complex piece of accounting and Dr. McPherson said that, using a detailed "Cost of Education Index," it was possible to prove almost anything by citing per-pupil expenditures.

Mr. Pike used the strict formula followed by the State of New Jersey and said that Princeton has a pupil cost of $970, compared to the state average of $664 and a Mercer County average of $749.

Administrative costs were questioned by Mr. Meyerhoffer.

Nassau Street's Width Is Still in Dispute

Surveyors of the time also used a "chain" equal to 100 links. A "chain" was four rods long.

Early Surveyors, Robert Dix, Princeton attorney who has studied New Jersey history for many years, explains the way roads of that day came into being. Surveyors laid them out, and then filed a "road return" showing where the road went and how wide it was. Many of these "returns" exist today in the office of the Secretary of State or in the Common Pleas Courts of county seats.

Why not, then, use the "road return" for the King's Highway to settle the width of 1911's Nassau Street?

Because no "road return" was ever filed for this highway, it never had to be surveyed or laid out because, so far as the colonists were concerned, it had always been in existence.

Nassau Street-King's Highway, when New Jersey was founded in 1664, was part of the Indian trail that went from the falls of the Delaware River, where Trent now is, across the slim waist of New Jersey to Perth Amboy.

Worn and used by generations of moccasined feet, it had no need for surveyors. The early Dutch settlers were excellent road-builders and they paved this Indian trail with good, solid stone. They made it into such a sturdy road that travellers between New York and Philadelphia, referring to it as The Upper Road, took it in preference to the Lower Road, which ran approximately where Route One is now.

Taverns like the Nassau Tavern and the Hudbray Tavern and the splendid old stone house on the Lawrenceville Road now known as GlenVine, were built at the half-way point, where travellers could spend the night and break the long, 100-mile journey. Churches, like Lawrenceville's 1114 Presbyterian Church, and private homes were built along the way.

Mr. Dix observes that even the state highway department acknowledges the Lawrenceville Road as 66 feet wide. If it were 99 feet, both the church and the Jigger Shop across the street, would be in the bed of the road, Mr. Dix says.

In 1927, the state produced evidence to sustain the highway department's claim to the 99-foot width. But an engineer named Julius J. Newmark, retained by the state studied all the historical records and said he thought the highway people should abandon that 99-foot claim and set 66 feet as the width, chiefly because so many encroachments had been made, over the years, on the classic King's Highway 99-foot width.

Nothing happened as a result of Mr. Newmark's suggestion.

But in 1965, Assemblyman Charles Farrington made the first of several attempts to get the 66-foot width adopted by the legislature. It always passed the Assembly but it never could make the grade in the Senate.

Incidentally, Mr. Farrington's law offices are at 188 Nassau. That building is one of the few set far back from the street — the 99-foot line would probably never go through Mr. Farrington's waiting room.

Mr. Dix was tapped by Gordon Griffin, president of the Mercer County Bar Association and Borough Municipal attorney, to study the question and recommend a position for the county lawyers to take on the legislation.

Mr. Griffin's own position that local Borough action is impossible — is based on the fact that Nassau Street is a State Highway and not a subject for local ordinance.

"The highway department's claim is dubious at best," Mr. Dix believes, "property-owners feel it's unfair for the state to press that claim because of its effect on ownership."

(More than one Nassau Street property-owner has had trouble getting a mortgage because of the indefinite width of the street.)

Mr. Dix then points to a footnote in the Borough's present Master Plan, assigning a 100-foot width to Nassau. "That only compounds the difficulty," he declares, "besides, it should have been 99, not 100."

THREE ARE RESCUED

On Ice Lake Water. Three men escaped possible drowning under the thawing ice of Lake Carnegie Tuesday afternoon because of the bravery of a 15-year-old Princeton High School girl and a Lake Drive housewife. Between 4:07 and 4:20, Township police received three calls requesting aid for victims who had fallen beneath the ice.

Heidi Faith, the 15-year-old HS student, rescued two university students who had fallen in the ice as they skated in the middle of the Lake opposite the foot of Longview Drive. Heidi told TOWN TOP-ICS that she and her friend, Ann Whitall of 94 Battle Road, had just gotten their skates on when she saw a man fall in. His companion also fell in trying to save him, she said.

She righted an aluminum row boat tied to their dock at 199 Longview and pushed the back part of it toward the two struggling men. One got in and then she edged the boat around to the other. By the time both were in, DeWitt Boice of the First Aid and Rescue Squad and Sgt. Jack Petrone of the Township police had arrived. Miss Whitall had rushed up to the Faith home to call police. The two victims, identified by police as Michael Denham, 19, a university sophomore, and West Slotnick, 21, Woodrow Wilson College dormitory, took hot showers at the Faith home. A roommate brought over dry clothes. Miss Faith, who got a warm "thank you" from the shivering students, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Faith, 199 Longview.

17-Year-Old Rescued. Five minutes earlier, Dan DeWeist, 17, 631 Lake Drive, was pulled from the lake by Mrs. Karl Hernquist, 667 Lake Drive. Mrs. Hernquist said that she had been skating away from the area when two boys came to tell her someone had fallen.

through the ice. First she took off her skates, then grabbed a hockey stick from her son who was playing with two other boys. "I couldn't find anything else," she said.

She walked out and pushed the hockey stick in front of her as far as possible and started to back up slowly with the youth on the other end. "He was very upset," she said. "He kept saying that he was so cold he could not stay up much longer." Mrs. Horquist reported that he had gone under a few times by the time she reached him.

He was just happy I was down there and able to be of some help," Mrs. Horquist said. Mrs. James Clark, 591 Lake Drive, also heard the youth's cries for help and called police. By the time Ptl. Anthony Gagliardi and Ptl. David Wilbur arrived, DeWist was safely out.

The first call came at 4:07, reporting someone had fallen through the ice behind the Maize Apartment. Ptl. Gagliardi responded but all he found was a hole in the ice. There were no people around and police are convinced that whoever fell in got out safely.

At the time of the mishaps, the white flags were flying, in floating safe skating. Police said the ice was safe but only in the designated "safe" areas. After the three incidents, the red flags were raised.

January is about to bring various kinds of weather unknown to June. The Man was missing Wednesday that the next 24 hours would produce a snow followed by sleet, freezing rain and finally just plain rain. He admitted he had predicted so many possibilities, some of them were bound to be right.

Slightly milder weather will follow briefly, but the week end is scheduled to see the thermometer drop once more. That's January for you — no June.

THREE HOMES ENTERED

In Township, Three homes were broken into and ransacked in the Township last week.

Entry to the home of Hugh Samson, 217 Brookstone Drive, was discovered at 6:25 p.m. on Sunday.

After breaking open a patio door on the east side of the house, the intruder ransacked a storage room and three bedrooms on the lower floor. Taken were a hi fi record player, two speakers and an FM radio.

From an upstairs den, the thief took a stereo system and tape deck. Ptl. David Wilbur made the initial investigation, Det. Norman Sero, followed up.

Between noon and 3:50 last Wednesday afternoon, someone ransacked seven rooms in the home of James F. Jennings, 32 Finley Road. The entry was discovered by Mrs. Jennings when she returned home and noticed the house in disarray.

Police believe that two large pillow cases missing from a master bedroom were used to cart the loot away. Among the articles taken were a dictating machine, pair of binoculars, a stereo tuner, movie projector and two cameras, a clock radio, an entire coin collection, an assortment of men's and women's jewelry and a small amount of cash.

Township police report that entry to the home, located in a new development, was through a french door at the rear of the house. The owners reported that they had been unable to lock the door because of an improper fit.

These kids are killing us," commented Det. Samuel Blanco. He stated that when stereo equipment and jewelry is taken, it is usually the work of young amateurs.

Apparently money was the only thing taken last week from the home of William Haupt, 416 N. Harrison Street. The entry was discovered Wednesday at 1:15 p.m. by Kathy Haupt, who had come home for lunch and noticed a door ajar. The thief had entered the breezeway and then forced a door leading to the kitchen, police said.

Taken were $85 from a dresser in the master bedroom and $45 from a small cash box in a closet. Ptl. Joseph Mazotas investigated.

6 MORE WALLETS STOLEN

Victims All Women. Six more women's wallets were stolen last week, as the wave of such thefts continues.

Mrs. Bessie Neviss of Hamilton Square, an employee of the Princeton Abstract Co., 6 Charlton Street, reported to police on Sunday that her tan wallet had been stolen from a shelf in her basement office between 12:30 and 3:30. It contained $45.

An aquamarine ring valued at $175 and $36 in cash were taken from a brown wallet which was stolen Thursday from a purse lying on desk in the Independent Educational Services office at 80 Nassau Street.

The owner, Sandra Appleby, told police that the theft occurred between 3:10 and 3:30 p.m. Her wallet was recovered under a stairwell at 41.

 Nassau the next day, minus the money and the ring.

Katherine Cameron of Cherry Valley Road lost $15. Her green wallet was taken Thursday afternoon from a cabinet in a microfilm office in Firestone Library.

Mrs. Donna Taburski of Flemington, an employee in a Mobil Oil Corporation office at 221 Nassau Street, had her wallet taken from her purse which she had placed next to her desk. The wallet, minus the $2 it had contained, was found later on Nassau Street and returned to her.

Lynette Schmidt, a nurse at Princeton Hospital, had her wallet taken last week from a food tray in a hospital cafeteria. She lost $47.

When she returned, she found her wallet containing $140 was missing.

"Under the seat of a car is the first place anyone would look," commented Detective Samuel Bianco of the Township police. He cautioned people: "Don't leave valuables in your car."

FRIDAY IS HOLIDAY

In Princeton Borough, Municipal employees in Princeton Borough will have Friday off this week, honoring the birthday of the late Martin Luther King. January 15 was made an official holiday by action of Borough Council on Tuesday evening.

A dissenting vote was cast by Charles Cornforth, "not that honor is not due, but we are going about it in the wrong way." Borough Hall will be closed Friday.

Geologist William B. Travers of the Conservation Coalition asked Council for an ordinance requiring a 10-cent deposit on non-disposable containers to help cope with the Borough litter and solid waste problems. He cited the ordinances in effect in Bowie, Md.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley replied that Council is "inclined to exert some leadership in this, and we're also considering the problems that merchants and distributors may have to face."

Shoppers' Slots. To help the Nassau Street shopper, nearly 200 parking slots in municipal lots may be changed from all-day parking to two-hour meters if two ordinances proposed by Mr. Cornforth pass second reading next month. The public hearing is set for 8 p.m., Tuesday, February 9, in Borough Hall.

The ordinances propose to make the south side of William Street a 10-hour, metered

A $40 Woeber

"Of course I plan to buy more lottery tickets — it's for education and that's what I'm in."

Princeton's lone lottery winner, Mrs. Edwina Tarabell, 196 Bayard Lane, won $40 in the first lottery last Thursday. Mrs. Tarabell is school nurse for South Brunswick High School in Monmouth Junction.

Mrs. Tarabell bought three tickets for that first lottery and observes, philosophically, that statistics are against her winning a second time. "But I plan to keep on buying."

Princeton might have had other winners: the state's Lottery Commission has revealed that two unsold tickets would have been $50,000 winners.

A computer run, after the drawing, showed that 1.2 million tickets weren't sold — and two were in the $50,000 slot.

parking zone: all of the Tulane Street west lot a two-hour zone and part of the east lot at Tulane a 30 minute zone.

Council plans gradually to move the all-day parkers farther from the business district. Moran Avenue and Spruce Street are under discussion as two-hour, metered zones.

While the ordinances pertain to the Tulane Street lots, Mr. Cornforth estimated that all-day parking slots currently within a block of Nassau Street that are potentially "shopper's slots" include 40 on the Tulane lot, approximately 50 on the Chambers Street lot and 90 adjacent to the public library.

Not A "Dump." Mayor Cawley reassured conservationists about the 29-acre tract on River Road being purchased from the Girl Scouts in behalf of the Sewer Operating Committee. The land borders the dump. "It seems unlikely," he said, "that we will use this land for land fill." Council voted a $100,000 downpayment on the $165,000 purchase.

Councilman John Strange reported that the Sewer Operating Committee expects a report from American Standard on repairs to the incinerator by the end of this week.

Signs Of The Times. The changing aspect of Princeton Borough was brought forth in a number of ways. Councilman Martin P. Lombardo reported on discussions with Donald Barr of the Recreation Department on programs for the elderly, an age group that is increasing in the Borough. He asked for suggestions from residents and asked that Council is considering installing a shelter at the bus stop at the housing development on North Harrison Street.

Ralph Kleiber, the new fire chief, seconded retiring Chief William Hussey's appeal for a paid fire inspector. The growth of the Borough and Township is such that "a volunteer has a hard time finding time to do a thorough job."

And meter maids (or youths) were brought up again, this time by former Councilman William W. Walker, who has served a stint as police commissioner. The purpose would be to relieve the police for law enforcement duties and, hopefully to catch the "meter feeders." Council President Robert F. Hendry reported meter collections and court fees in 1970 as $124,000 against a budgeted $87,600, "so we have shown at McCarter next Wednesday, January 20 at 8 p.m., as the next round in the New Cinema series.

It's billed as a melodramatic thriller whose subject is violence and the McCarter press department says "not for the squeamish." The story juxtaposes the story of an aging horror movie star with that of a clean-cut young middle-class mass killer similar to the "Texas Tower" killer, Charles Whitman.

FOLK ROCK RESUMES
For Spring, McCarter's winter-spring schedule of folk rock concerts follows right along after the fall-winter schedule, and it will begin Saturday, February 20, at 8 p.m. when Tom Rush comes to Princeton for the very first time.
Also, the Delaney & Bonnie concert, postponed from last November will be held Friday, March 12 in Alexander Hall. Tickets from the November concert will be honored on the new date, and remaining tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box office.

PAPER BAG BACK
With Children's Theatre. "The best children's theatre in New York" is what the New York Times thinks of the Paper Bag Players.
The company will come back to Princeton in mid-February with two performances of "Hot Feet," scheduled for 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Saturday, February 13. "Hot Feet" is especially recommended for children in the five-through-12 age group.

At McCarter Concert, Duke Ellington will bring to Princeton on Saturday, January 30, an orchestra which has been called "the most consistently creative enterprise jazz has ever known."
Veterans from the early Ellington years will be on the McCarter stage. They are Harry Carney, baritone sax, who has been with the orchestra since 1927, Conte Williams (saxophone), Lawrence Brown (trombone) and Jimmy Hamilton (clarinet and tenor sax). The full cast will also include Russell Procope (alto sax and flautist) who joined the Ellington group in 1935, Cat Anderson (trumpet), who date from 1941 and Paul Goncalves (drums), a newcomer from the class of 1950.

"CHITTY" CHITTY!

"Bang Bang" for Bennett, Scholarship students at All Saints' Nursery School will benefit from a screening of the musical "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" on Saturday, January 23, at 2 at the Princeton Playhouse.

A rare musical laid in the England of 1900, "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang" is a joyful collection for children and parents, involving are hobbits and heroes and a great many fanciful inventions.

Dick Van Dyke portrays the inventor Caractacus Potts, who lives with his two lively children and their eccentric grandfather in an old windmill.

Some of the inventions are characters, too — a dragonlike vacuum cleaner that eats rugs; a contraption that fixes breakfast then shuffles it to the table on tracks, and a hair-cutting machine propelled by bicycle pedals.

The most extravagant of all, of course, is chitty chitty bang bang, the flying motor car.

Tickets, at $1, are on sale at Hult's Shoe Store, Center Stations, Marsh's Pharmacy in the Montgomery Shopping Center, and at the Playhouse the day of the showing.

All Saints has four scholarships for nursery age children and proceeds from the movie will perpetuate them.

IT'S NEW To Us

TOOKIE'S BUTIK

From Sizes 5 to 24½. Most boutiques cater to the youth full petites. This leaves the tall or heavy person who likes young styles out in the cold. Tookie's Butik breaks through the size barrier in a very nice way.

"Tookie" is the nickname of Mrs. Helen Romney Bingham, co-owner with her husband, Robert W. Bingham. She's from St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, and "butik" is the way it's spelled by some of the sheps down there.

"This is a neighborhood shop," Tookie says, "and I ask both a mother and daughter could walk out of here satisfied. We carry from size 5 to 24½."

Tookie's Butik is at 310 Maple Street, Trenton, near Park and Oakland Avenues. It's on a corner near the Stokes School. At one time the premises was the neighborhood ice cream parlor, and since the shop's opening last fall residents have dropped in from time to time just to say how pleased they are to see the building fixed up and in use again. "My husband courted me in here," one woman told Tookie.

The clothes at the shop are plentiful, offering a range of sports, day, business and evening wear as well as accessories. You'll find here the very nice "Happy Legs" pants sets that come in a full complement of sizes that include the much-neglected tall girl.

"Happy Knicks", too—the great new alternative to pants that are coming on strong this year. Choose from crushed velvet, tweed, solid colors, Denini and seersucker versions are coming in.

There's great diversity

TOOKIE'S BUTIK is a chic little shop that has opened at 310 Maple Street, Trenton, and that's Tookie herself, hard at work.

among the offerings from Act III, a division of Jonathan Logan. We saw beautiful tops, shells, skirts, pants, jump suits—allpinned as coordinate clothing. Among these we noticed, too, a dress of soft green polyester in a shirtwaist style with a top-stitched yoke in sizes for the larger girls.

Among the dresses Tookie's Butik has some interesting ideas from Encore, such as the white dress that breaks into a dramatic black and white print at the waist, hem and edges of the sleeves. There's a rolled tie belt.

To give you an idea of price range, consider a four-piece outfit that features the new sleeveless jacket. There's a top in an abstract print of grays, blacks and whites to go with it, as well as a skirt and pants. ($37.50). Or, in an after-dinner dress for a woman who has put on a little weight, an eloquent blue touched with white beaded embroidery and accordion pleated sleeves falling up to the waist. ($35).

Among the knit dresses, well-made navy blue edged in red patent leather; and a heavier knit in a deeper shade of navy with amusing brass latches down the front. We also saw a very fetching black knit with its V-neck outlined in wide white scallops. There is a matching white ruff at the edge of the long sleeve; the skirt has a soft flare. Sort of a dinner in New York dress.

Tookie's Butik has charming dresses in silky prints—with the print handled in a down playing sort of way so that the wearer's facial skin tones aren't overwhelmed. Among them a slim-lined tropical design against a black background, ending in a deep, straight-hanging ruffle. The sleeves are long and slim.

If you know about the new Avlon polyester, which weighs absolutely nothing, you will be interested in the soft blue and light brown pants suit we saw at Tookie's. The fabric design is a tasteful, all-over scroll pattern.

We saw tapestry weave pants for slim, beautiful girls and plaids with a slight twist to the leg. Marvelous "port shirts" in white with full, deep cuffs. And wide belts to wear with them, including a link chain copy of a Valentino belt (about $7). And pendants with the medieval look to them, or dangling mesh fish.

Tookie's Butik also has some very different tops that ought to pick your winter wardrobe out of the doldrums. A printed scene of a Roman piazza on the front of one in tones of blacks and grays against a white background. The top is hemmed around with a row of printed medallions. There are others, judicious prints with a beautiful sense of abstract design in unusual color combinations. All with the Encore signature on them.

MARBLE-TOP HOT TRAYS At Krosnick Interiors. Long, slim slabs of Carrara marble that hide the heating unit underneath will add an elegant look to your buffet table. We came across them at Krosnick Interiors, 1747 N. Olden Avenue in Trenton, near Parkside.

This is simply an adaption of the way the old Romans used to heat their houses, when you think of it. The marble is beautifully veined and it keeps a perfect temperature. Choose a 24 in x 7 in size, or a 16 in x 11 in, or small, round ones. The prices go from $10 to $22. The hot trays are equipped with white electric cords, so there's no ugly brown line across your table cloth.

Krosnick Interiors specializes in the craftsman designs that make serving a salad an added pleasure, and in the objects of art that draw your eyes as you look about your favorite rooms. You may delight in the figurines of children by a young New York artist, Dave Grossman, whose work has just been added to the shop. He captures some of the wonder of childhood on the small faces of his thoughtful, sometimes quizzical figures. Sand or terracotta finishes on the figurines.

a salad steaming set that comes in a long, wide curving blade and a deep pronged foot. When not in use they nest a unit by tucking one handle into the other. From Austria.

Lamps always interest us. We liked especially a floor lamp that was simply a combination of a narrow black rod coming up from the floor, ending under a white linen shade, with a diffuser screen at the top ($53). And for certain types of lighting situations, Krosnick has hanging white globes topped with half shades of smoke gray glass.

If you are tired of liquid store bottles you may want to investigate the rum and gin bottles in white ceramic from Germany. These have amusing, free-hand sketches in the base area. ($7 ea.) Or smoked glass decanters from Denmarck ($20) with matching glasses.

Krosnick Interiors' offerings in the way of housewares is so varied that it is fun to browse around. Pinched-edge pitchers in etched glass, for instance, with matching glasses, or generous salad bowls in clear glass that let the salad speak eloquently for itself. Six serving bowls are included ($10 the lot). Or choose the jewel toned green or amber or perhaps the smoke gray set.

There are several types of wine racks and a great display of cookware and even more in looking nests of red and gold square dishes in white with a faint tracing of a radium in soft gray glass here and there. And excellent linoleum and shag-bearhug platters to pair with the various braziers.

THERE WAS A CROOKED MAN, a western in pop style with Kirk Douglas on the lam and Henry Fonda after him, opens this week at the Garden Theatre.

News Of The Theatres

And on the wall is an array of clocks in a variety of round, some with faces of mellow ivory and ceramic, and easy to read numbers ($20) others are very contemporary designs that skip the numbers.

Krosnick Interiors has knick-knacks, soiled in all size tricket cages for gift certificates (or planters), framed prints, art metalwork, and back to Rome again, small squat jars of solid marble each with a lid.

McCartier in Print
'Caesar at the Rubicon' in The Adore II White play that will have its world premiere at McCartney February 12, is the subject of a cover story in the February issue of 'Smithsonian,' a magazine published by the Smithsonian Institution, Washington.

On the cover will be a color portrait of Robert Blackburn, as Caesar. Other photographs include those of Richard Piche, who will be the narrator, and Seymour Pennzer who will portray Caesar's deputy by command.

The article shows set sketches by designer Grady Larkin and the costume designs of James Edmund Brady. Pictures of Mr. White, Director Arthur

McCartier with its production of 'The Sorcerer' at the Garden Theatre and one of the judges in the contest, paid tribute to Professor Michael Mathias, director of the group, for his "executive skill with students of limited experience and his deep understanding of what young people yearn to express."

Mr. Lithgow said it was "remarkable that a newly organized theatre class in its first major effort should have achieved this powerful impact and break through in communication."

The story concerns a search in Russia during 1927 for a dozen chairs formerly owned by aristocrats. One of the chairs contains a fortune in jewels. Ron Moody, who was Fagin in 'Oliver' is the ex-undisputed engaged in the hunt. His scrounging life in Communist Russia has turned him in to a kind of wild animal, and he pants and snarls in a very expressive comic performance much like the silent screen Frank Langella (the writer in 'Dairy of a Mad Housewife') is his companion in the search for the jewels. He's a hard case, more bogan with engaging in sarcasm. And pitted against them is a greedy priest acted by Dom DeLuise in a broad, hilarious style.

Met Brooks wrote the script, directed and also plays a minor role in the beginning film as the former servant of Moody — a fellow so slavish he welcomes even punishment from his one-time master. Brooks is a very funny man in all three roles.

GARDEN

There Was a Crooked Man (now playing) is a prison picture set in the Old West, with a cheeky and humorous approach and a facetious moral about greed.

Kirk Douglas and Henry Fonda head the expert, first rate cast. It ought to be a family picture, but the R rating is due to some brief nudity, profanity, and sexual deviation (handled subtly by director Joseph L. Mankiewicz).

The story introduces a batch of characters — prisoners who band together in a plot to escape the desert jail. Douglas is the roo man and 'horn lead' — Burgess Meredith is the old jailbird who is slightly off his rocker. Michael Blodgett appears as the handsome first timer; Warren Oates is a treacherous loner, and in keeping with modern film requirements, there is a pair of aging deviates, played by Hume Cronyn and John Randolph.

Henry Fonda is the new liberal-minded warden who cleans up the dirty jail, builds a new mess hall and hospital and finds the inmates ungrateful.

 the money for a meter per son."
 Edward Ahrens of Westcott Road appeared before Council in opposition to the Martin Luther King holiday proposal. He gave Council copies of publications in which Dr. King's writings had appeared or in which his work was praised, among them the January 15, 1970, issue of the Daily World and the April 3, 1965, issue of Saturday Review. His premise was "this all fits into the picture of a developing revolution."

Council members each spoke briefly, some from prepared statements. "In my own opinion, Martin Luther King is a figure of leadership, of love," Mayor Cawley. "He is a man who led many of us to rethink how we treat people in this country." (John Strange)
 "A voice out of the South to the South, America and to the world," (Martin Lombardo)
 "He used the tactics open to him legally" (Mrs. Alice Male)
 "He represented to me in my young life democracy," (Joseph Moore).

Appointments announced by the mayor include: C. Bergen Groendyke as auditor for 1961; Councilman Strange to the Mercer County Improvement Council on matters of solid waste disposal; Councilman Curran to the Stony Brook Regional Sewage Studies Group.

Long Range Report Asks Some Questions
 Per pupil cost at Littlebrook school is more than $200 higher than at John Witherspoon School, says the Long Range Planning Report, 4733 compared to $282.
 Why? Probably because Littlebrook has older, more experienced teachers who get more pay, the report says. But why should Littlebrook get the benefit of all the experience? The report suggests more "comparative analysis of staff" in comparable schools.
 Surprisingly, Princeton High's teaching costs are less than the Middle School's. Why?
 At PHIS, the per-pupil expenditure for home economics is almost five times as much as for English. The expenditure for Latin is almost as much as for English. "Do high-cost courses yield commensurate benefits?" asks the report.
 Advanced Latin may have only four students, but beginning Russian 34 students—nine students take advanced physics but 30 are in a typical biology class.
 Courses in business education, home economics and industrial arts have smaller classes than academic departments.
 The highest per-pupil cost occurs in advanced academic courses with low enrollments, and in occupational and "special education" areas. Does a small class mean better teaching? If it does, it is possible to say that Princeton's schools do a better job for youngsters at both ends than it does for those in the middle?

municipal calendar, new public office hours for the Borough Hall also will be closed this Friday, the birthday of Martin Luther King, Jr. The first year that Dr. King's birthday has been observed as a municipal holiday and it will make, for Borough employees a total of 13 paid holidays each year.

Princeton residents are invited to drop in at Borough Hall and talk with Mayor Cawley from 7-8 p.m. the first Tuesday of each month and the third Wednesday. This new schedule means that next Wednesday, January 20, will be his first "open house."
 No appointment is necessary. The mayor is also available in Borough Hall, by appointment, each Tuesday from noon until 1 p.m.

Mayor Cawley and Township Mayor James A. Floyd have been discussing Mayor Floyd's New Year's Day speech proposal for a Borough Township transportation commission.
 "I am happy to get something going on this idea," Mayor Cawley said this week. He said that talks with the Mercer Metro bus people on public transportation would have highest priority, but that the new Borough Township enterprise wouldn't be limited to that subject.

TOWNSHIP LOSSES
 High Court Declines. It's definite and final now: Princeton Township can't require a developer to donate land for widening an existing street that runs along the developer's property.
 That's what the Appellate Division of Superior Court said in October. The Township then asked the New Jersey State Supreme Court to consider the case, but the court has now denied the Township's request, so the matter is settled.

Two projects could be affected. North Square at Princeton, the "Former Tower," and Princeton Theological Seminary's cluster development of faculty homes, both on Mt. Lucas Road.
 In each case, the Township asked the developers to dedicate land to widen Mt. Lucas, pave the road to the necessary width and lay down curbs and walks.

"North Square" is still in a fluid stage; it will be before Township Committee next Monday on appeal from a Regional Planning Board rejection. If approval is finally granted, the Township will have to pay for what's involved in road widening.
 However, the Seminary's project has already been approved and will be ready for construction. A few remaining conditions are met. The chief one is approval of an open space agreement, which involves Township Committee, the Township Conservation Commission and the Planning Board.

Whether the Seminary's project already approved by the municipality, but not finally signed, can now access fully demand that the Township pay up, is a question.
 Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini thinks it's too bad the Court decided not to hear the case, because so many New Jersey towns are fighting a blaze which completely destroyed a two-story swimming cabana at the home of Bradford Mills. Pretty Brook Road.

Mrs. Mills said that the cabana, located some 150 feet from the main house, had contained furniture and a store room of camping supplies and baby equipment. Cause of the blaze has not been determined. Like the Brodsky fire, it was well along before firemen arrived.

REAR VIEW OF BRODSKY FIRE: This is the rear of the garage and home of Mr. and Mrs. David Brodsky which was damaged by fire last week. Damage to the two-story frame home on Castle Howard Court — a cul-de-sac of expensive early-American homes — was described as extensive. (Staff Photo)

ton Arms, W. Cranbury, sustained a bruised left knee and shin. His wife Louise, 48, complained of a sore arm and leg. Both cars had to be towed away. The mishap took place at 6:40 p.m.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME: Of David Brodsky. Fire of undetermined origin Thursday night extensively damaged the two-story colonial home of David Brodsky, 59 Castle Howard Court.

By the time volunteer firemen were called to the scene at 6:15 by Ptl. Frank Bocanassa, flames were already leaping from the wooden shingle roof of the attached garage. Firemen had to re-enters a second time when a neighbor, J. B. Anderson, 65 Castle Howard Court, noticed that the flames had rebounded. A second general alarm was sounded at 9:50.

Three firemen were hurt battling the blaze in the sub-freezing temperature. All were treated at Princeton Hospital and released. Raymond Wadsworth, 32 Spruce Street, was treated for smoke inhalation. Joseph Fabiano, 50 Fisher Avenue, received first and second degree burns of the hand. Both are members of Engine Company No. 3. Joseph and Ladder's Robert Buchanan, 79 Bayard Lane, suffered a severe bruise of his right leg.

Fire Chief Ralph F. Kleiber told TOWN TOPICS that the area where the fire was believed to have started was burned so badly, even when the firemen arrived, that it was impossible to say what started it. There was no evidence that faulty wiring was to blame, he said, adding that he was still waiting for the underwriters' report. Chief Kleiber was joined in his investigation by County Fire Marshal John Dempster.

Grey twisted bicycle frames, melted and bent garage door frames and the remains of a hand press gave mute evidence to the intensity of the flames inside the garage.

The freezing weather and high winds made the firemen's job "uncomfortable," Chief Kleiber acknowledged, but he added it didn't hinder them in fighting the blaze. "We had a line break but the firemen did a good job at the first alarm," he said. "It's too bad they had to go back a second time." About 100 volunteer firemen from Princeton's three companies responded.

He reported firemen had checked the house thoroughly and found no fire before leaving around 8:15, but apparently, he continued, the wind affected by the Appellate Court's ruling.

Mr. Nini predicts that the ruling "will slow the wheels." The planning board, confronted with a new development, must now wait to see whether Township Committee (or Borough Council) is willing to buy whatever land is needed to widen a road.

PRINCETON MAN KILLED: A Two-Car Collision, John March, 54, of 316 Kingston Road was killed in head-on collision between his car and another vehicle Friday night on County Route 518. Four other persons, including the driver of the other car, Hugh M. Gilmore, 39, of 7 South Lanning Avenue, Hopewell, were injured.
Mr. Gilmore, who was admitted in critical condition in Hunderland Medical Center, will be charged with causing death by automobile and failing to keep to the right, according to Sgt. Charles Hill of the Hopewell Station of the State Police.

Traveling alone, Mr. Gilmore was driving west on Route 518 when his station wagon crossed into the eastbound lane and collided with the Marek car according to Trooper Raymond Taitz who quoted accounts by witnesses.

Mrs. Marek sustained a fractured elbow and head cut and was listed in satisfactory condition. Two other passengers, John and Mabel Madden of Belle Mead received minor injuries. Mrs. Madden was treated for facial cuts and a hip injury. Mr. Marek was a chemist with American Steel and Wire Corp.
Mr. Gilmore is an employee of Rutgers University.

STUDENT FINED $205: For Drunken Driving, James A. Higgins, 22, of Lakeside, Colo., a student at Princeton University, was fined $205 Monday in Borough court for drunken driving. He pleaded guilty to the summons by Sgt. John D. Bellows.
Douglas S. Craig, 52, 537 Stockton Street, paid $10 for allowing a passenger to ride on his motorcycle without a helmet. Obstructing passage cost Theresa R. Provissiero, 28, of Dutch Neck Road, Hightstown, $15.

DRIVER CHARGED: With Failure to Keep Right, A New York City man was charged with failure to keep right Friday by Township police after his car struck another on Washington Road near Faculty Drive.

Charles S. Sargeant Jr., 57, told Ptl. David Wilbur that he had taken his eyes off the road when he turned on the heater and in so doing had swerved slightly to the left. When his eyes returned to the road, he continued, he was unable to avoid a collision with a car driven by Edward Tomassick coming the other way.

Mr. Tomassick, 46, of Prince

Who Should Pay for Your Child's Gym Suit?

You don't have to buy your child's school books — why should you have to buy his sneakers?

The state has warned all its 377 public school districts that by the school budget year of 1972-73, schools will have to absorb charges for any items directly or indirectly related to the curriculum.

At the state's request, Princeton prepared a detailed list of things kids have to pay for and how much they pay. No total sum is available, except plans. Associate Superintendent Eugene Biringer, who prepared the list, because there are many grey areas. In Mercer County, the estimated parent payments come to more than $265,000.

Princeton's school board expects to jump the gun, Mr. Biringer says, and develop a policy this spring to cover these items.

Here's a list of what Princeton children and their parents have to pay for:

• Gym suits, sneakers and socks: $12 per pupil; $19,000 for elementary school pupils, $23,000 for PHS for a total of $42,000.

• Athletic equipment items like football shoes and lacrosse sticks must be purchased by the athlete. Mr. Biringer calculates an average expenditure of $8.50.

• Musical instrument rental: $3 to $8 per month, from fifth grade through eighth. By high school, a student has either bought his own, or uses the school's drums, bass violins, cellos, etc.

• Home economics: $10 per child in the Middle School for a $3,000 total; $20 at PHS for a $4,700 total. This money is for sewing patterns and fabric to sew. The school supplies thread.

• Industrial arts: $3 each for $1,500 in the Middle School and $20 for as sault after he pleaded guilty to striking Mr. Albert Brooks in the face and Lloyd Craig, 1 Margaret Court, paid the same amount for using offensive language. Craig denied the charge by Ptl. Arthur Jackson.

Had God Vonder Cleared, Last November 7, Robert Alt of 66 Little Hall, Princeton University, was arrested by Sgt. J. Bellows for selling hot dogs and soft drinks from a push cart on the corner of Washington Road and Prospect Avenue without obtaining a Borough license to do so.

In Borough court December 2, Altson pleaded not guilty but was fined $10 the cost of a license. He appealed the decision.

This week, the Borough received a letter from Mercer County Judge Clifton C. Bennett that he had found Altson not guilty.

Mr. Pike and Dr. McPherson explained that the salary is the largest factor in a 10% increase, followed by increased legal fees; a second budgeted election in case the district needs a referendum; and account transfers to cover purchases like the bubble gym.

Board member William Z. Abrams protested that the board's business office had apparently been too busy to provide a citizen with detailed budget information. Dr. Abrams set in motion a proposal to pay an extra person to answer budget questions but the suggestion died, and Mr. Pike said, "If anybody has budget questions, call a finance committee member." The other member of the finance committee is Dr. Philip Cruickshank.

Fund Reaches $4,664

A number of additional contributions to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund, made during the past two weeks, have increased the amount received to $4,664.23. Despite the effects of the recession, this is within 3% of the sum raised a year ago.

Every cent received is made available to the Family Service Agency, a member of the United Community Fund, for use in alleviating the cases described in the annual appeal and others of a similar nature. All costs of administration are met by TOWN TOPICS.

It is never too late to give. Checks should be made payable to the TOWN TOPICS Christmas Fund, and mailed to P.O. Box 64, Princeton.

Topics Of The Town

public meeting about the Long Range Planning Report for Princeton's schools.

The first of three meetings to be held at the same time and place on successive Thursdays.

"Finance and Governance" will be this Thursday's subject. Originally, it was to have been "Educational Planning." But E. Alden Dunham, chairman of that committee, has been called out of town and David Brodsky, a committee member, has been involved with details of a severe fire that damaged his home, and so the subject for this week has been changed.

Brief highlights from the Long Range report appear in this week's scattered columns. The full report is available at any school.

MAN ON THE MOVE!

Coach-and-Four to Metroliner. A prime ladies' buggy and sleek, superluxe scale model of the Metroliner are both part of "Man on the Move," a transportation exhibit at John Witherspoon School, open to the public to view, if not to ride.

The exhibit will be carried through January 28, and will be open to the public all the time, including Saturdays until noon.

Antiques From Maplecraft Farm Antiques to Lakeland, Pennsylvania, show kids what it was like in the days when horsemanship meant just that. The ladies' buggy has a top like a bonnet, and resembles the huggies you still see occasionally in Pennsylvania with an Amish farmer at the reins.

The two-seater cart carriage, shown on TOWN TOPICS cover this week, held a lot of people as the photograph shows. There's a "New York sleigh," which is another kind of sleigh, and sometimes the J. W. boys and girls stand in front of the sleighs and prance like make-believe horses.

On the floor is an airplane model you can sit in. It was built by Mrs. Roger Sullivan and it has a sleek shift with which you can actually manipulate wheels, ailerons and elevators. (Mrs. Sullivan is in charge of all "air" operations in the exhibit. Mrs. Ann Zahner is "land" and Mrs. Margaret Migliore, "sea.")

Swarming in the air is a scale model of the biplane used by the Red Baron. Space films are shown and a space mobile is due any day now.

From 175 years ago, the Moulin of 1800, comes a Chihuahua wheel, that used to be pulled by oxen and above it is a 12 foot in diameter automobile tire from the Great Western Tire Company.

Besides the Bull model and the electric train and the last out of an airport, there are delicate bridge models, built by students who were in Princeton University's Summer in Engineering program. University staff members who helped out were David P. Blanton, professor of civil engineering and John F. Abel, lecturer in civil and geological engineering.

Water transportation is represented by a standard, life size boat built by N. David Phillips, maybe to go fishing in. Students clamber in and out of it all day.

Peter Kauffman, a student at PIIS, built a standard, life size car with a stern sign that warns kids they CANNOT clamber in and out of it all day. But it shows the kind of thing they can build when they grow up.

Are We Going To Let Our Historical Heritage Go Down The Drain Of A Housing Project?

One hundred and ninety-four years ago on January 3, 1777, the Battle of Princeton turned the tide of the Revolution. It was due to George Washington's personal bravery and cleverness (the British called him "The Fox") that the Americans won the encounter.

At the time of the battle, the land between the Clark farm (still standing) and the Quaker Meeting was open field. The troop movements at the beginning of the battle, and Washington's "Fox Chase" at the end, were both across the present "Weller Tract". The Clark farm, the ridge which sheltered the Americans as they moved toward Princeton, the woods behind the Quaker Meeting and the orchards and buildings of the time played a prominent part in the battle strategy and movement, which flowed across an large area.

Today most of the site of the battle is under houses. A group of local citizens is trying to preserve the small remaining area of the battlefield outside the present Park. The purposes of the Society are: Preservation and enlargement of the historic battlefield site; conservation of the Stony Brook valley open space; preservation and restoration of historic buildings in the area.

Once lost, our present opportunity can never be regained. To introduce houses, garages, cars, signs, roads, and telephone poles in the middle of this historic area can only be destructive to a place which is unchanged since the 18th century.

State and national interest has focused on Princeton's fight to preserve the area. Application for federal funds has been filed regarding this endangered site, the only remaining Revolutionary battlefield in New Jersey without adequate protection.

WILL YOU HELP?

The matter is urgent, since the land of the "Weller Tract" is under consideration for re-zoning to be followed by immediate construction.

IF YOU CARE:

- Join our Society by filling out the coupon.
- Call or write your Township or Borough Committees or the Mayor
- Write to the State of New Jersey, expressing your interest in the extended protection of the present Park, especially the "Weller Tract".

From the minutes of the New Jersey Historic Sites Council (the advisory body of the New Jersey Historic Trust, June 12, 1970):

● After viewing the Battlefield and Weller Tract area, a motion was made, seconded, and passed that the Historic Sites Council notify the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society (formerly Princeton Battlefield and Stony Brook Preservation Society) that the Council agreed in principle with the statement by the Society regarding the Weller Tract and the additional acres on the Southeast side of the Battlefield. The Council expressed the hope in that the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society would make every effort to raise the funds required to purchase the Weller Tract as well as additional acres to be acquired.

$30,000 GIVEN

To Westminster Choir College, James E. Thomson, who recently retired as chairman of the board of Merrill Lynch Pierce, Fenner and Smith, has given $30,000 to Westminster Choir College to establish a scholarship endowment fund.

The amount, one-half of a retirement gift presented to Mr. Thomson to dispose of as he wished, will be invested, and the yearly yield, between $2,500 and $3,000, will be divided equally between three annual recipients of James E. Thomson Scholarship.

To promote a greater interest in the development of vocal skills and to encourage students with above average ability to prepare for a life of service to mankind through music, Westminster will present the awards to student-majoring in voice, and preference will be given to those who have expressed a commitment to a life of service in the church.

Selection of the "Thomson Scholars" will rest with a committee composed of the President, Dean of the College and three members of the voice faculty. Three students, one from each returning class, freshman, sophomore and junior, will, during commencement week each year, be designated as recipient of the scholarship for the following year.

Selection will be based on academic excellence, musical progress, personal development and character. The scholarships will be awarded for one year, although a student will be eligible for renewal on an annual basis.

Mr. Thomson was born in Southampton, Ontario, in 1895. In 1924 he went to work for the original Merrill Lynch firm. He was elected President in 1966 and in 1968 became chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Mr. Thomson was elected governor of the American Stock Exchange in 1962, serving two terms, and governor of the New York Stock Exchange in 1966.

HISTORICAL EXHIBIT ON

At Firestone Library. Letters from George Washington, portions of the first message to cross the Atlantic by cable, various fundamental New Jersey constitutional documents, and a drawing by Robert Fulton for a canal are among the items in a major new exhibition at Princeton University's Firestone Library.

"New Jersey History in Two Collections," the exhibit which runs through April 30, is jointly sponsored by The New Jersey Historical Society and the Princeton University Library and draws from the resources of each.

Almost 100 books and many manuscripts and another 35 pictures and other items are included as the display attempts to show the development of the Garden State, mainly in the colonial period. The exhibition is open Mondays through Saturdays from 9 to 5 and on Sundays from 2 to 5.

The combined exhibition marks the conclusion of the 125th anniversary observance of The New Jersey Historical Society, which was founded in Trenton in 1845. The organization is now headquartered in Newark. The Princeton University Library dates to 1746.

King Charles II. "Members of the Library and Society staffs have cooperated in their work and have come to appreciate the interrelationship and the related value of their collections to the historical researcher," observed Robert Lunny, Director of The New Jersey Historical Society.

A patent from King Charles II of England to James Duke of York, for a tract of land in New England, including New Jersey, dated 1664 will properly open the display at Princeton. A subsequent lease from the Duke of York to John, Lord Berkeley, and to Sir George Carteret, for the Benedetto-Kollmar. Miss Susan Benedetto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Benedetto of Cranbury, to Richard Kollmar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kollmar of Hightstown. The wedding will take place in 1972.

Miss Benedetto, a graduate of Hightstown High School, attends the St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing. Her fiancé, a graduate of Princeton High School, served with the Army and is now with Walter H. Kollmar Pontiac, Hightstown.

Steen-Shelton. Miss Nancy Steen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Steen of Plainsboro, to Jeffrey Shelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shelton of Salem, Mo. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Steen, a graduate of Princeton High School, is a student at Washington University School of Physical Therapy, St. Louis. Mr. Shelton is a senior at Washington University, majoring in biology.

Merritt-McCloskey. Miss Diane L. Merritt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy C. Merritt of Phoenix, Ariz., to Dennis M. McCloskey, son of Mrs. Margaret B. McCloskey of Plainsboro and the late Leo J. McCloskey. A June wedding is planned.

Miss Merritt was graduated from Princeton High School and attends Arizona State University. Mr. McCloskey, also a Princeton High School graduate, attends Mercer County Community College.

Oakley-Sokolowski. Miss Elaine S. Oakley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Oakley of 28 Dodds Lane, to Joseph A. Sokolowski, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Sokolowski of Lawrenceville. An October wedding is planned.

Miss Oakley, a graduate of Princeton High School, attends Hood College, Frederick, Md. Mr. Sokolowski attends Notre Dame High School and Seton Hall University. He is a graduate student at Rutgers University.

WEDDINGS

Badder-Copella. Mrs. Susan S. Copella, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walker W. Stevenson Jr. of 129 Hodge Road, to Dr. Elmer M. Badder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Badder of Philadelphia. January 9: at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Badder, a graduate of Vassar College, is associate in charge of community programs at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Dr. Badder was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. He is a resident in surgery at Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, New York.

Olson-Steen. Miss Joan C. Steen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Steen of Plainsboro, to Captain Ardel M. Olson, United States Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvin L. Olson of Seattle, Wash. December 24: Fort Polk Hospital Chapel, Louisiana.

School Sports?

More "creativity, energy and money" should be spent for extra-curricular activities in Princeton's schools, says the Long Range Planning report. Athletics in particular need attention, the report feels.

In "Sementary" schools, any boy or girl who wants to participate is welcome. But in the Middle School, emphasis is on interschool athletic competition, and the program "tends to be dominated by the oldest and best coordinated youngsters."

Last spring, 80 youngsters showed up at tryouts for two squads of Middle School varsity baseball. Twenty were gone by nightfall on the first day, 50 had disappeared by the end of the first month.

In the high school, youngsters continue to shrug off athletics because of the "interscholastic emphasis of athletic programs," report says. "If traditional school spirit is a thing of the past," asks the report, "what are the alternatives?"

The bride, a graduate of Wagner College, is a captain in the Army Nurses Corps. Her husband is a pharmacist. The couple is stationed at Fort Polk.

Willsey-Watts. Miss Billie Joan Watts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Watts of Raleigh, N.C., to Dr. Robert G. Willsey of Princeton, son of Dr. and Mrs. Glenn G. Willsey of Rochester, N.Y. January 9: Hayes Barton Baptist Church, Raleigh.

The bride attended Duke University, Durham, N.C., and her husband is a graduate of the University of Rochester. The couple will live in Princeton.

McKinney-Cowen. Miss Carol A. Cowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Cowen Jr. of Elmhurst, Ill., to John A. McKinney Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McKinney of 976 Kingston Road, December 22: First Baptist Church, Altamonte, Ill.

The bride is a graduate of Granada Hills (Calif.) High School and of Principia College, Elmhurst, Ill., where she majored in French and minor ed in education. She will teach elementary school in the Williamsburg, Va. area. Her husband, an alumnus of Principia College, attends Andrew Wyeth Law School at William and Mary College, Williamsburg.

Criticism "Too Pious"

To The Editor of Town Topics: I was not altogether surprised to read the recent letters to the editor that denounce the fact that Christmas is no longer celebrated as previously in the Princeton public schools. The apparent iniquity in which case the majority is blamed for giving credit to the minority is transparent.

This people of Princeton has sufficient education and sophistication to know that "minority" thus referred to means Jews, agnostics, and atheists. It is this very minority as well as the Board of Education that appears to originate these self-righteous Christians who have so righteously attacked the school board's recent decision concerning the celebration of Christmas in the schools.

My daughter attends public elementary school in Princeton and told me that children in her grade made holiday gifts for children in the hospitals. I haven't heard any attacks on that yet.

A good number of American citizens feel that religious observance is a private matter and should not be involved in public institutions; however, the majority, it seems, probably does not agree with the genuine separation of church and state.

I personally would not be offended if all major religious holidays, Eastern and Western, were traditionally taught and celebrated in the schools. This would require serious thought, preparation and interaction.

Considerable time too, would have to be invested for this to be meaningful. Would the righteous majority be inclined to follow this procedure?

I was a teacher in the New York State public school system and observed the majority offering everyone all the trappings and traditional observance of Christmas as well as selected Bible readings throughout the year. I don't think the minority previously was even regarded enough at Christmas to be considered worthy of consideration and respect. The vocal majority was too self-concerned to even be aware of the holidays and traditions of non-Christians throughout the world.

I personally am offended by the pious criticism and foolish arguments offered in TOWN TOPICS and therefore prefer not to answer some of the appalling presumptions arguments totally lacking in logic, virtue and love. I had thought that Christmas was a holiday celebrating love. That is hard to teach, especially when those professing religious concern often seems to demonstrate a lack of it.

(Mrs.) CECILE CHASSMAN
225A Marshall St.
Corrections Submitted.
To The Editor of Town Topics:
No one who believes in diversity, or who has had occasion in some special situation to make use of their services can fault Dr. MacLeod's praiseworthy attitude to Princeton's excellent private schools. (TOWN TOPICS, Dec. 31). But perhaps "shrine detachment" remains the best defense for him until he is forced himself more accurately on the subject of its public ones.

Such a phrase as "the administrative board of the public school system devoted to raise their own salaries" is startling. Our local school board is an elected and totally voluntary body. It dutifully emphasizes that it does not interfere in the curriculum. Moreover, the administrative officers of the schools do not fix their own salaries.

As for the public school system belonging to the people as a whole, I am not sure just what is purchased by involuntary religious taxation. Something, no doubt, but no real stake in the school system. That is, most certainly.

It involves both in public education, willingness to en-terest one's children to it, to renounce petulant public criticism in favor of long hours of inconspicuous sustained effort, as our present school board has, in good times and bad alike, secure in the conviction that all institutions (even private schools) have their ups and downs. And whether it is all over, as it is for us, a continuing confidence in our schools and a sense of gratitude for all that they have done for our children.

KATE NICOLL
(Mrs. F. M. Nicoll)
175 Prospect Avenue

Editor's Note: Mrs. Nicoll was a member of the Princeton Township School Board for nine years and its president for five.

Heartfelt Thanks.

To the Editor of Town Topics: My family and I wish to express our appreciation to the members of our local Fire Department, the First Aid Squad and the police for their diligent and untiring efforts in connection with the fire at my sister's home on Monday, December 28th. Princeton is indeed fortunate to have the services of these dedicated men.

United Fund-Red Cross Campaign Emergency

To the Editor of Town Topics: The Princeton United Community Fund-Red Cross Campaign has achieved 85% of the goal set for 1970. To date, $548,264.92 has been received. The goal to support our 29 member agencies and the Red Cross in the Campaign is $633,261.

The United Fund has surpassed campaign goals for the past ten years. In a final effort to reach the present goal—the highest in United Fund history and 30% higher than the goal for 1969—the campaign has been extended until the end of January, 1971.

Of vital concern to the United Fund is the fact that our 1970 budget was designed to meet the realistic needs of the agencies we help support. They deserve nothing less than full support from the community. To present our member agencies with less than the amount allocated by our Budget Committee will, in time, curtail agency services and thus hurt those who seek agency assistance in time of stress.

In the next few weeks people in this community can demonstrate their concern for their fellow man. If you have not contributed to this years United Fund-Red Cross Campaign, this is the time to do so. If you have contributed, won't you please consider a supplemental gift in this emergency.

We are not asking the people in this community to consider whether or not they will be their brothers' keeper—just his helper.

John P. Hartzell, Chairman
1970 United Fund-Red Cross Campaign

Think of the Future.

Now that the Township Committee is about to hear the appeal from the action of the Planning Board regarding the land of the Jaynes Trust on Mt. Lucas Road, let us see what is at stake. To do this, we must look at two things, namely, what Princeton is now, and what Princeton would be like in the future.

I daresay it is the desire of almost everybody to have the second of these things as good as, or better than, the first. There are three factors needed to bring this about.

First, the feeling the people of Princeton have for their community.

Second, the participation of the community in making its desires, regarding the kind of place it wants to live in, known to those who govern it.

Third, government which understands and is responsive to the desires of the community, and its real needs for the future.

The result of having these three factors is that sometimes speculators who buy land, take options, or merely make applications, learn that money cannot automatically be made at the expense of the community. They also learn that good government prefers to act for the benefit of the citizens at large, rather than for the private profit of a few individuals.

The war cry of the promoter is "Progress!" It is not that I am against progress (without a capital P, of course). However, it always pays to see what meaning is intended by the user of this word.

One voluble exponent of "Progress!" has written at length, in favor of a group of office buildings, but was most vehemently opposed to the school board's plan to buy land near his home. To him, an office building stands for progress, while a school does not. In short, I do not look at what someone chooses to call progress, as a sort of Car of Juggernaut, under whose wheels the fearful must throw themselves. As a citizen of Princeton, I am for what influences the future of our area, if it improves the quality of living here in some way, and does not cause harm to someone else, on balance.

The promoters want to put an office building into an area reserved for the service needs of the community.

If the building is to succeed, a local street, so marked on the master plan, must become intolerably crowded at rush hours. Why should the master plan, which made Mt. Lucas Road a local street, be flouted for the convenience of these people?

The carrot is always the magic word "ratables." Most commercial ratables are not pure profit, but require additional expense on the part of the community in the form of an increase in municipal services. But, even were this not the case, the question is "How much of your community as you know it are you willing to sell off for a decrease in taxes?"

Would you permit an oil refinery to be built here, even when its assessed value might cut taxes by half or more? As in that case we follow our nose and eyes, in a case like the present one we follow the idea that we do not sell, for a mess of pottage, our community, or its name, or the good life of ourselves or our neighbors.

The silence of the Trustees of the Jaynes Trust troubles me. It is the real party in interest in this sort of proceeding. Does the wording of the Deed of Trust prevent it from acting directly, so that mere volunteers are a sort of stalking horse? It would be interesting to have a good look at that document.

On a more lighthearted note, it is interesting to see the reference, in a letter signed by the applicants, to a "remote corner of the Township." Such language is better suited to Alaska than to the intimate confines of the place in which we reside.

New Jersey portion also is displayed.

There are town books (used for recording transactions relating to land in the 17th and 18th centuries) for Elizabeth and Newark, deeds, maps, wills, proclamations, speeches, letters, legislative journals, and history books.

Several of the letters, including one from George Washington to Gov. William Livingston and another from him to Patrick Henry, concern the progress of the Revolution in New Jersey. A letter from Washington to Benjamin Franklin, pointedly declines Franklin's suggestion that the two patriots tour Europe after the War.

Boudinot Letter. Another letter from Elias Boudinot gives his wife instructions about the disposition of their property near Princeton prior to her joining him in Philadelphia after he had been named first president of the Continental Congress.

There is the recently discovered second existing portion of the original manuscript journal for the Legislative Council and Privy Council of New Jersey, covering its proceedings in 1775 and 1776, some of which have never been published.

Other items relate to early attempts to abolish slavery in the state; to trials; and to such acts as one in 1807 which would "prohibit tavern keepers, store keepers, collectioners, and hucksters from entertaining minors under the age of twenty-one years (at colleges, academies and schools for the purposes of instruction) and from selling them strong drinks."

There are many paintings and drawings, including the famous Aaron Burr portrait by John Stevens for his multi-tubular boiler, and works by John Watson, who was the first New Jersey artist of note, are included. Stevens, the whose family the Institute at Hoboken is indebted, was instrumental in developing rail roads in the state.

Additional items include silver teaspoons, a teapot made by Elias Boudinot, a tankard made by Nicholas Roosevelt, sugar tongs and other table ware, paperweights, and a cradle.

Arranging the exhibit, in cooperation with Earle A. Coleman, Assistant University Librarian for Rare Books and Special Collections, and with Lanny, were Mrs. Edith O. May, Society Librarian, Howard W. Wiseman, Society Museum Curator, and Thaddeus J. Krom, former Keeper of Manuscripts of the Society.

25 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start. It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it inspects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and weighs only a midgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good for body as it did 25 years ago.

Idealism Triumphs over Realism on Issue of 10th Football Game

Princeton University, in common with six of the seven Ivy League members, wants to continue the present low-key, nine-game schedule appropriate to football because, in the words of President Gohsen, "We are reluctant to consider anything that will take Ivy Group athletics in the direction of a more intense, more prolonged and more highly competitive season."

"What is involved here," he comments, "is a question of balance, together with a sense of concern for how much out of balance athletic programs seem to have gotten in many other American universities." He adds, "I would estimate that a lengthening of the football schedule has very little chance of gaining the approval of the Ivy Group presidents."

The Ivy presidents have apparently turned their backs on a tenth game for the early part of the present decade, at least. Last month they voted against it, 7 to 1, with the lone affirmative ballot cast by Princeton's Kemeny of Dartmouth. It has been their policy in the past not to reconsider such matters at their annual meeting on the theory that no new evidence has been produced in such discussion. That, certainly, has been the fate of spring practice since it was first banned in 1952. Dr. Kemeny introduced the question of a tenth game "in the hope that it might be added to the 1973 schedule." With last month's rejection, and other colleges no longer taking Ivy teams into consideration as they book their games from three to five years in advance, the likelihood of a tenth game by mid-decade is virtually at the vanishing point.

The Parochial Approach. While Coach Jake McCandless and Ken Fairman, Princeton's veteran director of athletics, are wholeheartedly in favor of a tenth game, the opposition they encounter begins at the level of the chairman of the Council on Athletics, Neil L. Rudenstine (and his counterparts at the other Ivies) have considered the proposal and have said "no" in such matters affecting various aspects of student life, their policy decisions are funneled up to the presidential level, where the pronouncements made are more binding.

A desire not to weaken the Ivy League by having its members play a third non-Ivy opponent was one of the reasons cited by Rudenstine in a statement summarizing the opinions of the Ivy Committee on Coordination and Eligibility. "The more non-league teams we play," he declared, "the less we are really a league."

Football, inevitably, suffers from double-standard treatment — being judged entirely apart from other, presumably less emphasized sports. It does not weaken the foundations of the Ivy Basketball League to have its ten play 14 games each other and a dozen more with such opponents as Valparaiso, Memphis State and Northern Illinois, but football, they contend, should not stretch its non-Ivy rivalries from two to three.

Dangers of Expansion Cited. "The committee's vote against a tenth game had to do with two kinds of apprehensions," Rudenstine said in summarizing its findings. "First, while the idea of competing with new and different teams was an attractive one, the committee also felt that it had dangers attached to it."

"Some of our institutions already feel hampered because they are forced to compete against some teams who have spring practice and this naturally produces a corresponding feeling that perhaps our own teams should have spring practice in order to meet the enemy on equal grounds. It seems extremely likely that if we engage still more non-Ivy teams, who operate at a level of competition essentially different from ours, we will find it hard to escape pressures that propel us in a more intensive direction."

President Gohsen

"The more non league teams we play," his statement continues, "the harder it is to maintain the relative parity that presently exists within the league. Or, to put it another way, the more non-league teams we play, the less we are really a league. In any event, the Dean Committee felt that the prospect of playing new teams was being completely willing to expose ourselves to pressures that were not fundamentally compatible with the goals of the Ivy League in general."

Spring Practice Downgraded. As far back as last May, however, coaches of the eight Ivy colleges went on record as being completely willing to take on the added assignment of a tenth game without resort to a request for a resumption of spring practice. They are, in fact, quite willing to subordinate their perennial hopes for spring drills to addition of a tenth game to their schedules.

As has been the case in other games, Brian Taylor was again within shooting distance of scoring half his team's points when he produced 25 Slicker added a dozen, but the individual shooting performance (other than Taylor's 11 for 23) ranged from ordinary to wretched: Mankas 5 for 12, Slicker 5 for 13 and Bill Dask 2 for 12. Bill Kapler hit on the only shot he took but a 63° center who takes only a go, fell in a game is hardly pulling his weight in the boat.

If a great majority of NC AA colleges played ten games while the Ivies were playing nine, and the NCAA maximum has now been raised to 11, the Ivies can go to a tenth game without loss of character. It is time, too, that the long assumed role of playing their brother's keeper be discarded — nothing whatsoever can be achieved by an attempt to guide the nation's colleges through a demonstration of concern over their scheduling policies.

On the other hand, much is being lost by retention of a nine-game schedule, which is not geared to the changes being wrought by the '70s. The Ivies feel, Rudenstine reports, that the opportunities for financial gain from another game "are a temptation that we ought to resist."

At a time when every college in the nation — the Ivies in the front rank — needs every friend and every dollar whose support it can in its economic enlist, it seems logical to replace a measure of idealism with a corresponding amount of realism.

TIGER 5 DISAPPOINTS

Playing Well Below Potential. Without a major victory in its first 11 games — in fact, victor in only four and loser in seven — Princeton's basketball team may be on the way toward the poorest finish in the sport here since the 1955-56 team won 11 and lost 11.

Upset Saturday at Cambridge, 62-60, for the first time in their last nine games with Harvard, the Tigs are 12-15 in the Ivy League and out of contention in early January. Forty-eight hours earlier, they had given one of their better performances in drubbing Dartmouth at Hanover, 78-58, but they showed against a highly ordinary Crimson quintet was an error-filled night game. Now they are idle for another ten days, resuming action in Jadwin a week from Saturday against Davidson, one of the better teams in the Southern Conference and an opponent which they have not defeated only twice in five tries.

Offense, defense and common-sense strategy all went out the window in the game at Cambridge. The Tigers trailed by 10 (32-22) at the half, shooting a miserable 30% from the floor and hitting on two of eight from the foul line — a performance that defies description in a family newspaper.

With Harvard (5-8 going into the game) showing no semblance of tonight basketball itself, the Orange and Black took occasional stabs at catching up, none of which were crowned with success until it was too late. Princeton cut its half-time deficit to three (38-23) with 15 minutes to go, fell behind again by 12 and then once more came creeping back.

Victory within Reach. Although Al Duffy made only one of a possible four points on successive one-and-one situations, the Tigers managed to narrow the gap to 36-34 with four minutes left. With less than a minute to go, it was 60-58, but Reg Bird batted the ball out of a Harvard player's hands and Ted Mankas went in for an uncontested layup.

Princeton never got the ball back, despite the fact that it had only four team fouls and could have given one to get possession. The home team ran out the clock in precision-like fashion, fed the ball to Captain Duke Dwyer and his 24-foot jumper went through the basket as the buzzer sounded. Both teams played a good portion of horrendous basketball but Harvard at least had a victory to show for it.

in and out. Tigers of last winter, who had two future NBA players in John Hummer and Geoff Petric but were not always particularly motivated toward solid basketball, lost at Hanover.

This year's sophomore-dominated quiet gave a far better account of itself, opening up a 10-point advantage early, and leading by 45.21 at the half before finishing with a 20-point margin. It was a 78-58 final.

A 51% shooting average over Dartmouth's zone defense in the first period told much of the story. Taylor had 14 in the opening round and finished with 38 for the evening.

The Indians' Paul Erland matched that total, but Jim Brown, Dartmouth sophomore, was held to 12 by Taylor before he fouled out. Brown was a top member of the U.S. national team this summer, one that played together abroad with an eye to the 1972 Olympic.

TIGERS FINALLY WIN
Skaters triumph in overtime. Throughout the third period in its game Monday night at Colgate, it appeared that Princeton's oft-beaten hockey team would blow another lead and lose another game. The Tigers went into 3-1 before sophomore Bob Bezan got his first goal for Princeton. Heppner scored for the Indians in the second period.

Exams will idle the team until Saturday, January 23, when Princeton comes to Barber Rink for an afternoon game.

The Orange and Black tailed held two goal leads before the overtime session began. John Heppner scored as early as 1:17 of the evening round and Jack McLean followed with another at 4:30 before the home team got a pair to tie it up.

The second round was all Princeton's. Jim Titterton getting the third Princeton goal and Princeton hitting the Colgate nets for a second time. Colgate then scored twice in the final period.

Two days earlier, Dartmouth handed the Tigers their first consecutive defeat at Hanover by a 5-2 score. Goalie Ed Swift made 47 saves to 25 for the Indians' netminder.

The Indians never trailed, leading 1-0 after the opening round, 2-1 at the end of two and then raising its margin to 3-1 before sophomore Bob Bezan got his first goal for Princeton. Heppner scored for the Indians in the second period.

PHS VS. EWING FIVE
At Lawrence Tuesday, had the Princeton High School basketball team lived up to the pre-season predictions made for it by coach Larry Ivan, Friday's up-and-down half with Ewing would have been a big game.

But the Little Tigers have made a poor print of Ivan, losing eight of their first nine, and barring an upset of epic proportions, the Blue Devils will drive home the final nail in Princeton's tourney hopes. Tapoll is 8 p.m.

Tuesday, the team will be at Lawrence High School for another 8 p.m. contest. The latter will mark the Little Tigers' eighth consecutive away game.

Perhaps it is just as well that PHS is out of it. Now they can relax and enjoy the game.

"They're pressing too much. They're trying so hard to do well they're tight out on the floor. They're missing shots and fouling too much."

This was the assessment of Ivan after Steiner jumped over his Little Tigers Friday for a 32-9 half-time lead, going on to win easily, 62-32. PHS committed 18 team fouls and shot a poor 2 for 10 in the first quarter to back up Ivan's comments.

Sweeney, Lost For Season. Any hopes that PHS would turn it around soon were dashed when the team lost its floor general and co-captain, Bobby Sweeney. The lone returning letterman on this year's squad, Sweeney has been hospitalized by mononucleosis and is out "probably for the rest of the season," said Ivan.

PHS HIGH SCORER: 61 Bill Evers is high scorer on the Princeton High School basketball team, which has averaged only 37 points a game in nine starts. Of eight double-figure performances by the Little Tigers this season, Evers owns seven. His high is 20.

Sweeney didn't play. "I can't remember so many back court fouls in two games," said Ivan.

In Winter Track, 35-33. Winning live events, the Princeton High School winter track team took its opening dual meet of the season Saturday, shading New Brunswick 35-33.

Steve Woodside, David Frenlich, Ciro Baldino and Don Owens captured the half-mile relay for PHS, the deciding event. Owens (71) and Steve Woodside finished first and third in the 60-yard dash.

After Bill Wilson, Frenlich and Baldino swept the quarter mile, Jim Willard won the half-mile with a clocking of 2:15, and Roland Smith won the mile in 4:56.3. Smith is captain of the team. PHS miler Rex Hay finished third.

The Little Tigers were blank in the shot put and forfeited the high hurdles but Bill Cropper and Bill Frazier won important points by finishing second and third in the two mile.

Dedicated PHS Wrestler Scores Four Points Despite Broken Wrist

Leon Costa got a break over the holidays. He deserved better.

Leon is co-captain of the Princeton High School wrestling team. He broke his wrist in the opening minute of his match in the Lower Moreland Invitation Wrestling Tournament held during the Christmas vacation. With it, four years of training and dreams of success went down the drain.

"I was shooting for the districts," he said. "I was going to take it all this year."

Wrestling a boy from Hatboro-Horsham in Pennsylvania, Leon recalled: "We were both shooting for a take down. I managed to get a whizzer on him — a position of advantage — and started to apply pressure. We tumbled to the mat and both of us landed on my wrist."

"I felt pain in the arm at the time but I wasn't sure it was broken. I felt it was, but since the score was 0-0, I wasn't going to stop."

Four Points — 1 Broken Wrist. In the second period, Leon tried for an ankle pick up. "When I went to pull up, I pulled with all my strength and the leg won't come up. I couldn't lock up after that," he said. "The final score of the six minute bout was 13-4. I scored four points on him with a broken wrist," he said, rather proudly, too.

The bout marked the first time he had wrestled in the 141-pound class, which is really the story of Leon Costa, because this summer he weighed 181.

400-600 Calories a Day. "I started in the summer," he began. "I was eating between 400 and 600 calories a day. I had my doctor's okay. If you eat less, your muscles begin to break down."

"The initial weight loss brings on weakness," he continued, almost clinically. "but once you maintain your weight for a week or two all your strength comes back."

What did he eat? "Mostly vegetables. There was some fish and cottage cheese, and I drank of lot of grapefruit juice. It was all high protein. No, I didn't mind not eating," he replied to a question. "It was worth it. I love to wrestle."

Why? Why did he decide to lose so much when he could have wrestled the next weight up? "First, I work best against a challenge," he said. "Al so, you're more loose and limber with less fat. You can move more quickly."

WHAT BROKEN WRIST? Disabled for the season by a broken wrist but not in spirit, Leon Costa still comes out for wrestling practice. Here he shows a hold, despite cast on arm, to PHS teammate Howard Hedner.

Hampered by swelling and cartilage problems in both knees as a junior, Costa, in he still wasn't able to make weight for the first two mat sessions, spent hours building up his legs. He worked three nights a week in the local school gym with the YMCA's universal weight machine.

When he wasn't using that, he used his own weights until he could support 45 pounds on each leg for about an hour each day.

To build his knowledge of the sport along with his body, Costa began wrestling as a freshman and has thought of little else since, attended a wrestling camp this summer.

he team, cost and all, showing holds. He plans to continue wrestling in college, hopefully at Princeton, Penn. or Cornell.

"If not there, then Lehigh," he said, a slight smile forming. Lehigh, as any follower of the sport in the east knows is the top of the mountain.

If determination is any criteria, Leon Costa will make it. — Continued on Next Page

"THE BEST HE'S EVER WRESTLED": Princeton High School's Wes McClain on top is half-way through twisting under the arm of Lawrence High School's Pat Snyder. McClain was the 154-pound match, 6-4. "It's the best I've ever seen him wrestle," said assistant coach Dick Hietrick.

Hague surprised Lovelace, however, by battling him to a 2-2 draw. From there PHS took the next five matches to win, 28-13. "He's our 141-pounder from now on," commented coach Tom Murray.

Ross Sits One Out. After Hague, Larry Ritchey (148), Wes McClain (154), John Hodges (167) and John Drummond (heavyweight) all won decisions. Lawrence Parker (62) pinned his man. Drummond was substituting for Lou John Ross who had wrenched his shoulder in practice. He'll be ready to go the next match.

In the lighter weights, Andy Foltyn (98) and Chris Cascard (130) won decisions. Perhaps the sweetest win for the Little Tigers was Tommy Evans' class. Hampered this year by a shoulder injury, Tommy decided the boy who last year had pinned his brother, Mark, Ken DeRemer, wrestling for co-captain Dave MacDonald in decision, and Phil Ethersole, 106-pounder for PHS, got pinned.

After the meet, Murray reported that he was "real happy" with the way McClain had wrestled.

PDS TO FACE NEW FOE
Hoping to better 14 Mark Gonsky, who scored his first win in five starts so far this season, the Princeton Day hockey team will meet the South Orange Canadians for the first time at 4 p.m., at home, hoping to put another contest on the victory side of the ledger.

Not much is known about the South Orange team. Coach Larry Iulian Miller said he understood it was a fairly strong team in its league. South Orange is replacing Princeton High on the PDS schedule.

After the rough start in New England, which gave the Panthers three quick losses, the team got its first victory last Wednesday against Cranford Hockey Club, 5-0. PDS dominated the game against its weaker opponent, taking 42 shots at a busy Cranford goal. Sophomore Russ Woodworth led the scoring with 11 goals. John and Art Mitnitch and Pete McCandless had one apiece.

Saturday night, PDS ran in to a charged up Lawrenceville

Sports In Princeton

PHS IS EGGED, 44-47
In Hecie Court Finkel. The final score was Hopewell Valley High School 48, Princeton High 47.

It was a thrilling win for the Bulldogs — their sixth in 10 games — and an anguishing defeat for the Little Tigers. Throughout the entire final period, the confines of Hoval gym reverberated to a raucous din that made the well-known Palestra pandemonium almost funeral. The vocal Hopewell Valley fans and students deserve an assist on this one.

Only the final few minutes count. The high point came when PHS coach Larry Ivan apparently had won the game by outscoring Hopewell's Skip Johnson, only to have it taken away the next instant by a questionable call.

PHS started the final quarter with a 39-34 lead. However on a three-point play by Hopewell's high scorer, Mark Spurguez (17 points) — one that saw Princeton's high scorer, Billy Fryer, fall out with 5:17 remaining — HJV regained the lead, 41-39.

Then with 1:13 to go, Spurguez was tagged with a back court foul and had to leave with his team in front, 44-42. Tim Nading scored underneath to make it 46-44, whereupon Ivan jumped up and shouted that Tim Schutz, Spurguez's replacement, had not reported in — a technical foul. Play was halted while a long dispute between the two officials and Johnson and Ivan followed. At one point, it seemed as if no technical would be allowed but Ivan persisted and finally, Dave Fry went to the line with 49 seconds to go. He made it, to bring PHS within one, 46-45.

PHS took the ball out on the technical and Leon Robinson scored on a layup. But wait! Instead of PHS leading 47-46, the official called walking on Robinson. How can you be walking when you are dribbling the ball? Ivan roared. He called it the play that decided the game.

With just seconds remaining, Kent Barth deliberately fouled Schutz, but the latter made both pressure fouls for a 48-45 HJV margin. Fry hit for PHS at the buzzer.

PHS SKATERS WIN FIRST
Top Hsu, 6-4. After being thrashed, 15-0, by Wissahickon early last week for his third setback in a row, the Princeton High School hockey team, psychologically, needed a win. It got it Sunday scoring six points — less more than it had in its first three contests — to defeat Hun School at the Princeton Day School rink 6-4. "Winning is a lot better than losing," said Eugene Doherty, the Little Tigers' jubilant coach.

Because Friday's game with PDS has been cancelled, the Blue and White will be idle until next Wednesday when it tangles with the Beacon Hill Hockey Club. The game will be played in Summit. Against Hun, PDS started inauspiciously, trailing 2-0 at the end of the first period. In the second and third period, we put it all together, we started to look like a team," said Doherty.

PHS pulled ahead, 3-2 and then 5-3 after Hun had tied it, 3-4. Alex Lamar scored three goals for Princeton and Doherty remarked that the fans began throwing hats onto the rink. That hasn't happened in a long time for PHS.

John Weber scored two goals and Steve Sanford one. Doherty also singled out the "remarkable job" fashioned by his goalie, Brooks Mohrman. "He kept us in the game," he said.

FIRST WIN IS ELUSIVE:
For PHS Quinlet. Again this season, that first victory is proving an elusive one for the Princeton Day School basketball team, which was soundly beaten —Continued On Page 31

BUSINESS In Princeton

DEALERSHIP AWARDED

To Joseph Needham, Joseph J. Needham, Charlesville Road, Princeton Junction, has been appointed as an authorized dealer for Trane products for the Princeton-Trenton area. Announcement of the appointment was made by G. W. Hutz Jr., Manager of Dealer Development, Trane Company, LaCrosse, Wis. As a Trane dealer, Design Air Systems, Inc., will carry a complete line of Trane Air Conditioning and heating products for residential, commercial and small industrial applications.

A long time resident and businessman in this area, Mr. Needham attended St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia. He was formerly vice president of operations for Needham's Motor Service in Trenton. Prior to opening Design Air Systems, he completed a comprehensive eight-week training program at Trane's head quarters in LaCrosse.

Design Air Systems specializes in Total Comfort Central A/C.

Conditioning systems complete with humidity control and electrostatic air cleaning. In addition to design and installation capabilities, the company is equipped to service and maintain all brands of heating and air conditioning equipment.

PROMOTION MADE

To Research Director at ORC. Sara S. Dukes has been promoted to research director at Opinion Research Corporation. As a senior member of the professional staff, Mrs. Dukes will guide other researchers in their work and will also be involved in designing and analyzing complex research projects.

Mrs. Dukes who lives at 313 Swing Street, is a specialist in statistical analysis and has directed largescale projects in a variety of research areas, primarily in the fields of corporate reputation measure, agent, financial relations, and travel services. She has been member of the Opinion Research Corporation staff since 1959. Prior to leaving her native Hungary in 1956, she was a textbook editor and translator for the Department of Education.

LOAR PROMOTED

By Western Electric. Howard H. Loar, 35 Linwood Circle, Director of Engineering Planning in the Engineering Division of Western Electric in New York, has been named General Manager, Research and Development and will head the company's Engineering Research Center located on Currier Road in Hopewell Township.

In his new post Mr. Loar will direct research and development in manufacturing processes which are conducted at the Research Center for the company. Western Electric is the manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell System.

A native of Wilsonville, Neb., Mr. Loar began his Bell System career in 1954 as a member of the Technical Staff of Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill, New Jersey. For

Banks to Close 4 Days

Both Princeton's banks will be closed from the end of the business day on Thursday, February 11, until 9 a.m. Tuesday, February 16.

The unusual four-day period occurs for the first time this year as a result of a shift in federal holidays, moving observance of Washington's Birthday to the third Monday in February. In 1971, this will be the 15th. Lincoln's Birthday, a state bank holiday in New Jersey, will be observed on Friday, February 12, so that banks will be closed from the 12th through the 15th.

Evening banking hours which are usually in effect on Friday will be observed that week on Thursday, the 11th.

VICE-PRESIDENT NAMED

At Princeton Bank Harry H. Edol, Jr. of Somerset has been appointed an assistant vice president at Princeton Bank and Trust. He will join the bank staff as a commercial loan officer. He was previously Assistant Treasurer at the Fidelity Union Trust Company in Newark.

Mr. Edol is on the Board of Governors of the Bank Credit Associates of New York. He is a member of the New Jersey Association of Credit Executives and the Bank Credit Division of the same Association. As a member of the Newark Jaycees, Mr. Edol headed fund raising and acted as a group chairman of the United Community Fund.

Originally from Chatham, Mr. Edol is married to the former Cynthia L. Pierson of Hopewell. Mr. Edol graduated from Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis., and served with the New Jersey Air National Guard and the U. S. Air Force

Now it's worse. Dragoset & Petraglia.

The problem seems to be the "g" in Petraglia.

It's silent. Pet-tralya.

We hope that solves the problem.

In the past four years, we've solved a lot of problems that were a little weightier. Problems of marketing services and products for clients that range from banks, schools and radio stations to research and manufacturing companies. Even a large chain of funeral homes. There's a problem.

If your company has a problem that requires marketing know-how, give us a call. We know how to do the total job, make a fair profit and leave some for you. Remember, phonetically it's Drag-o-set and Pet-tralya. Dragoset & Petraglia. Call (609) 924-3749. Or stop in at 245 Nassau.

MUSIC In Princeton

TO GIVE "RIGOLETTO"
At McCarter, Verdi's nielo die "Rigoletto" will be presented by the Princeton Opera Association next Saturday January 23, at the McCarter under the direction of Igor Chi-chagov.

Guest artist Eduardo Assali is in the title role. Verdi's nielo die will sing the role of Gilda and Clyde Tipton will portray the assassin Sparfucile. Henry Price, who was Faust in last season's production, is cast as the Duke of Mantua.
The cast also includes Nancy Jackson as Maddalena, Joan Wanda as the Duke of Mantua.

Cheeryl Chang, Countess Cap-prino, Mary Johnson, Giovanni Albert Jansson, Borso: Robert Hammon, Count Coprano, and Norman Hart, Marullo.

Eduardo Assali has appeared in the movies, on the London stage and performed with the Philadelphia Lyric and Grand Opera Companies as well as the Pittsburgh Opera.
He is under contract with the Darmstadt Landestheatre to sing a variety of leading bass baritone roles.

June Tipton appeared here this fall in the Association's production of "Hansel and Gretel" and is with the Princeton Madrigal Group which is conducted by her husband, Clyde Tipton. Mr. Tipton is also an operatic composer. His "The Forced Marriage," adapted from Moliere, was presented at Rider College and will be given by the University of Illinois.

KODALY WORKSHOP SET
At Witherpoon School. An all-day workshop on the Kodaly philosophy of music training will be held for Princeton Regional Schools staff and community on Wednesday, January 20, in the John Witherpoon School. The vocal music department is sponsor.
Zoltan Kodaly, Hungarian composer and educator, first developed his method of nurturing a child's musical sensitivity in Hungary after World War II. The work was continued at the Kodaly Musical Training Institute in Wellesley, Mass.

The featured speaker will be
John Deibler of the Haverford School System, Haverford, Pa., who studied at the Institute in Wellesley and in Hungary with Mrs. Kodaly, who is continuing the work begun by her late husband.

William Trego, coordinator of vocal music for the Regional Schools, has planned the workshop as a special Wednesday Program event. He feels there is a need to examine the Kodaly approach because it coincides with the educational goals of the regional schools.

The workshop is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. until noon, and 1:30 to 4 p.m. In addition to Mr. Deibler's lecture, there will be a film, a demonstration using 25 fifth grade boys from the Haverford schools, and a question and answer period.

STUDENT CONCERT SET
Sunday Afternoon. The Princets of Music will present a student concert on Sunday at 3:30 in the Woolworth Center Rehearsal Room. Performers will be Vers Basch '72 and James Carmichael '71, pianists.

Miss Basch transferred to Smith College as a sophomore and is majoring in Near Eastern Studies. She studied piano with Robert D. Lincoln of Douglass College and Larrie Wallfish of Smith College and has performed in several orchestras. Mr. Carmichael, a music major at Princeton, has been the student of John Kenneth Adams of the University of South Carolina and of Robert Miller of New York. He played in a student recital at Princeton last year.

The program for this concert will be J.S. Bach: Concerto for two pianos in C Major; Prelude and Fugue in A Minor and Schubert's Sonata in A Minor. The solo pieces will be performed by Mr. Carmichael.
The concert is open to the public, admission free.

AMATEURS TO MEET

Sunday at 5. The next meeting of the Society of Musical Amateurs will be held on Sunday afternoon at 3 at the University Chapel, Cherry Hill Road, off Route 206.

Leon Dubois will conduct Poulenc's "Gloria." The solo part will be taken by Mary Kemp, soprano. Those wishing to attend should notify Mrs. M.
B. Gottlieb by phone (921-7211), or at the door Sunday.

CONCERT SCHEDULED

By Westminster. The third event of the Westminster Choir College 1970-71 Chamber Music Series will feature the Trenton State College Faculty
Woodwind Quintet. The concert, in the Playhouse on the Westminster campus, will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Members of the quintet are Dart Williamson, flute; Mir-tha Helms, oboe; Roger Mc-Kinney, clarinet; Edward Helms, bassoon, and Jane Reichter, French horn.

The program will consist of the Divertimento in B flat, K.
270, by Mozart; Quintet, Op. 71,
by Beethoven; Pastoral, Op.
21, by Vincent Persichetti;
Deux Pièces by Ropartz; Trois
Pièces Breves by Durt, Blaser Quintet, Op. 56 No. 2, by Danzl; Suite for Woodwind Quintet by Washburn, and a March by Barrows.

The concert is open to the public without charge.

SUNDAY CONCERT SET

At Church of Our Saviour.
The Hamilton Squares for Christ will present a program of contemporary gospel-music this Sunday, at the Church of
Our Saviour, opposite the Enc Theatre on the Princeton Pike.
The program is scheduled to begin at about 6:30 p.m. and will follow the annual family dinner.

The group, which has been heard in many churches throughout the Trenton and surrounding area, comprises a 40-girl teenage chorus which is accompanied by piano, bass, guitars, and drums.

An interdenominational group, comprising members of all Christian faiths, the Hamilton Squares for Christ will sing selections by Olla Skillings, Jimmy Owens, and other well-known writers and arrangers.

3 SPEAKERS ANNOUNCED

By N.J. Archeologists. The Archeological Society of New Jersey will hold an open meeting this Saturday in the parish house of Princeton Methodist Church to hear two illustrated talks and a discussion. of the proposed New Jersey "Antiquities Act." Miss Constance Greiff will discuss the Princeton Historical Society's excavations at the site of the 18th Century Hudbarrs Tavern and the rear of Bainbridge House, the Society headquarters.

A preliminary report on a Princeton site, proving man's residence in New Jersey over a long span of time some 10,000 years ago, will be presented by Associate Professor Herbert C. Kraft, director of the Seton Hall University Museum. Assemblyman William Schuler will outline the provisions of Assembly Bill 1195, which he is sponsoring with Assemblyman Karl Wendel. The bill seeks to combat destruction of historical and archeological items through careless excavations.

Sports In Princeton

en in its third and fourth attempts for its last week.

If unable to attain it at the expense of the Hun School in a contest scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, the Blue and White will have its best chance so far this season against Bryn Athyn away on Saturday. Last year, the Panther's broke their 11-game losing streak against Bryn Athyn, winning 46-36.

Coach Chan Jones has pinpointed the team's two main problems as bad shooting and lack of conditioning. In a 60-37 loss to Solebury last Wednesday, the Panthers made only 13 baskets out of 62 attempts.

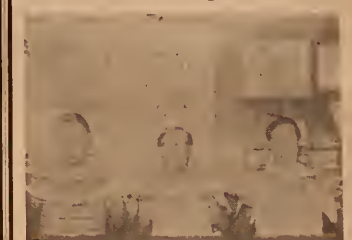

On Friday in a 62-39 loss to Germantown Friends, the Panthers made only 13 baskets for the first half, and found themselves on a point behind the undefeated visitors. However, after the intermission, Germantown got its last break moving and ran PDS out of breath. And while the visitors managed to shoot near 50% in the second half (18-38), PDS could only manage seven for 24.

Tony Dale had 11 and Mark Ellsworth 10 in the Solebury contest. No one was in double figures against Germantown,

This lecture series will cover the geologic history of the life of the earth — its origins, evolution, extinctions and significance of major plant and animal groups during 600 million years of prehistoric time. The course will include demonstrations at the Guyot Hall Museum and a one day field trip this spring. This class at which falls up quickly and rather than be disappointed an im-

News Of The CHURCHES

ANNUAL SERVICE SET
At University Chapel. The annual Service of Commemoration will be held at 11 this Sunday in University Chapel, honoring 51 members of the Princeton faculty, administration, staff and student body who died during 1970.

The Princeton community— from University and town — is invited to attend, according to the Rev. Dr. Ernest Gordon, dean of the chapel.

The Rev. Dr. Robert B.Y. Scott, Danforth Professor of Religion, emeritus, will give the address. President Robert F. Goheen will read the names of the honored dead.

Other participants include members of the student and graduate student body. The offering will go to the James E. Graham Memorial Scholarship Fund, established by the Class of 1960 11 years ago.

OFFICERS NAMED

By Christ Congregation. Rol and F. Bennett was elected treasurer and Joseph E. Sundeen financial secretary of Hawk School.

A graduate of Augustana

Lane, at the recent annual meeting. Re-elected to office were Robert F. Westover, moderator; Robert S. Hopkins, clerk, and Mrs. Bruce O. Boston, church school superintendent. The congregation voted to donate a chair to the Martin Luther King Memorial Chapel at First Baptist Church.

"WRITE-BACK SERMON"
At Baptist Church. The Rev. Dr. Walter P. Carvin of Princeton Baptist Church at Penns Neck will give the third in a series of "write-back sermons" during this Sunday's 11 a.m. service.

His topic is "Christ in Human Suffering." Members of the congregation, after hearing the sermon, write questions which are taken by the ushers to Dr. Carvin for response from the pulpit.

He began the "write-back sermons" last fall, choosing "Jehovah's Witness" as his title. The second in the series was "The Mystery of Christ. The Trinity."

REV. HENRY TO PREACH
to Prince at Peace Church. The Rev. Arthur Henry will be the guest preacher this Sunday at 10 a.m. service of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, held in the Maurice deane financial secretary of Hawk School.

A graduate of Augustana

College. Rock Island, Ill. he studied at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago. Yale Divinity School and in Salzburg, Austria. He teaches English at Rutgers in Newark and is writing a dissertation on Reformation theology. Following his ordination, he founded a Lutheran Church in Davis, Calif., and taught at Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary.

Further information about Prince of Peace Lutheran Church may be obtained by Berni Midland, 1 Rummold Way, Princeton Junction.

SCREENINGS SET

For "Civilization" Series. The film series, "Civilization," written and narrated by Kenneth Clark for the British Broadcasting Company, will be shown on Sunday evenings from February 7 through March 31 in the auditorium of the campus center at Princeton Theological Seminary.

Two films will be shown each Sunday night, beginning at 7 p.m. and are open to the public without charge. Viewing time is approximately 2 1/2 hours. The screenings have been made possible by the National Gallery of Art in Washington.

"Civilization" traces Western cultural history from the end of the Graeco-Roman world to the skyscrapers of contemporary New York. Described as "not merely a definition of civilization but a sustained and nourishing celebration of it," the series was two years in the making, 117 locations, 18 libraries, 118 museums in Europe and the United States were used.

NEW OFFICERS BEGIN

At St. Andrew's. The ordination and/or installation of elders and deacons of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will take place during the 10 a.m. service this Sunday. The Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton will preach on the topic, "The Church Is..."

Elders who will participate are Mrs. Ralph Bloom Jr., Franklin D. Crawford, Mrs. Charles C. Granade, Charles A. Heiberger, Clayton H. Jacobus, Charles W. McKee, Wilbert J. Shinn and Robert H. Silvester.

Deacons are William W. Derby, Miss Mary E. Duschler, Edwin S. Duncan Jr., John A. Hodges, Robert D. Mangan and

Frederick F. Stiff.

During Church Academic, which begins at 11, two adult classes will be held in addition to the youth classes. "Church and State Relations," led by the Rev. William B. Morton, and "Music in the Church," led by Thomas McElhenny, organist and choir director of St. Andrew's.

RICILETIN NOTES

Rev. Dr. Donald M. Mivel of First Presbyterian Church, Moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey, will take part in the annual Service of Intercession for the Government of the State of New Jersey, set for 5 p.m. this Sunday in First Presbyterian Church, Trenton. Other participants are the Very Reverend Lloyd G. Chaitin, dean of Trinity Cathedral; the Rev. Alfred D. Smith of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Cathedral and the Rev. Peter Asales of St. George's Greek Orthodox Church. Governor William T. Cahill will speak.

Dr. J. Gus Woodward will be the guest lecturer at the Ashbury Class of Princeton Methodist Church this Sunday. The class is studying man's responsibility for the natural world. Dr. Woodward, an expert on sound and acoustics at RCA laboratories, will discuss noise pollution.

Wilberforce Street Presbyterian Church will hold the annual meeting of the congregation and incorporation at 11:30 a.m. this Sunday after an abbreviated worship service.

A chicken dinner will be held on Saturday from noon on at the Trenton Church of God in Christ, 360 N. Warren Street. Sister Powell is in charge.

Sermon titles this week include "Jemima, I'm sorry," a response to Eric Segal's "Love Story" by the Rev. Robert L. Cope, preaching at 4 and 11 in the Unitarian Church of Princeton.

OUR MOST VALUABLE REAL ESTATE IS OUR EARTH

The wisest, most enlightened, the most long-sighted exploitation of resources is not enough. This whole attitude which consists in thinking of man's material profit only is self-defeating. I personally believe that if we do not permit the earth to produce beauty and joy it will not, in the end, produce food either. If we do not, in Thoreau's words, "value it as beautiful as well as useful" it will ultimately cease even to be useful.

WOULD YOU LIKE —

a solid, well built older house? In an established neighborhood with mature plantings?

Would you like a big, light, airy modern kitchen — with plenty of room for a breakfast table, as well as an enclosed porch looking out to a fenced rear yard and a spectacular weeping cherry?

Do you need four bedrooms? Can you use three and a half baths? Do extras such as air conditioning, attic fans, remote control garage door openers, fire and burglar alarms appeal?

Then call us to see this immaculately kept home.

It could be the buy of your lifetime at an asking price of just $65,000

Bygone days are more than a memory in the atmosphere of this mellow, lovely pre-Revolutionary house, handsomely enlarged during the Victorian period, comfortably up-to-date everywhere it should be. Vital statistics: 5 bedrooms, 4 1/2 baths in the main house; 3 bedrooms, 2 bath apartment over the 3 car garage, on a precious setting of almost 13 peaceful, beautifully treed acres with a branch of Bedens Brook rambling through it.

Our listings, as those of all New Jersey Real Estate Brokers, are subject to open housing.

Surround yourself with trees, grass and history.

There's plenty of all three on what may be the highest spot between New York and Philadelphia. Certainly it's one of the most historic, if not the most historic. Just 15 homes will be custom built from your plans or ours at the Green Acres Country Club Golf Course. Each will share in a sweep of common land... and in views and privacy all but vanished these days. Isn't all this worth $50,000 or more?

WHEN SPRING CREEPS OVER THE WINDOW SILL, you'll put yourselves on the back for having been so clever back in grim grisly January, as to see that this very different Princeton property had so many possibilities for your boony brood. For example, the pool, a kidney-shaped Sylvan girdled with terraces the glass-walled sun room, some 20 feet square the big paneled recreation room with bar and adjoining lavatory, the ground floor master suite of bedroom, bath and study and the two dormitory sized bedrooms with connecting bath upstairs in the children's department. Won't your family be brimming over with plans for putting all this to good use? And now is definitely the time to buy. $69,500.

YOU'LL HUFF AND YOU'LL PUFF, all over town and you'll not find a smarter investment than this two story brick happily situated in a Western Township neighborhood of far more expensive houses. Very much available at this moment, it will provide you with 5 or 6 bedrooms. 4 full, tiled baths, living room and paneled family room, each with fireplace formal dining room, terrific kitchen, lovely terrace overlooks two acres. The house you can't blow down, but don't hesitate to try us on the price. $79,900.

BE THE FIRST IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD, well, almost the first. This is one of two builder's houses, (the beginning of a newly planned area in convenient West Windsor) and the other is already occupied. It has long been our experience that the earlier buyers in a new development invariably get the best deal and now it is your chance. 4 bedroom, 2 1/2 bath colonial has center hall, living and dining rooms, paneled family room, eat-in kitchen, basement and garage. Hard to match at $43,500.

TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH, and brought to you now in solid brick with setting by several discerning generations of neighboring Princetonians. All of which means that a distinctive small house of a certain age is just waiting in the Western Borough to delight you 3 bedrooms and 3 baths. Attractively arranged living and dining rooms. Glassed and heated sun room kitchen, recreation room. 2 fireplaces. Garage. $82,500.

AND, IF NOT A BUYER, THEN A RENTER BE

WALK EVERYWHERE FROM THIS WESTERN BOROUGH RANCH HOUSE: 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, living room, study, dining room, eat-in kitchen. Six month lease at $425 per month unfurnished.

ARCHITECT-DESIGNED COUNTRY HOUSE: 8 minutes from town on Pretty Brook Rd. Brick floored entrance hall, large living room and library, each with fireplace, dining room, deluxe kitchen and 1 1/2 baths downstairs. 3 bedrooms, one with fireplace and 2 baths up. 2 car garage. On 3 acres 6-9 month lease furnished at $500 per month

ELEGANT STONE MANOR HOUSE: between Princeton and Lawrenceville and big enough for the biggest family. Large comfortable living and dining rooms, study, modern kitchen and laundry. Lots of bedrooms and baths. $650 per month unfurnished

THREE WAYS
TO WASH

Here's a description of our three types of washing machines — exactly what each will do for you, and the cost

Overload washer — use this new machine for your wash
'n' wear garments. Set it for warm or cold water, adjust speed of agitation and spin to gentle. It will turn out all synthetic fabrics ready to dry on hangers.

Also for regular washing, just set the machine accordingly.
Cost is 35c a load.

Double-load washer — this highly efficient machine, used in commercial laundries, holds twice the regular amount of clothes. It washes twice, rinses three times. It does a superior job. Cost is 35c.

Regular washer — suitable for a smaller wash. Cost is 30c.

And a word about dryers —
you control the temperature.
Use coolest setting for synthetics, "no-iron" and woolen fabrics.

The Great Steam Trains...

For my part I will always be grateful that I grew up in a small town with a train yard.
If I wouldn't have missed that for the world.

To remember the steam trains is to remember sights, and smells and sounds. Smells like cresson. All that steam. When there was the smoke it was over all the platforms and walkways — in fact everything of wood around the railroad reeked of cresson. Nor was it easy to rid your clothes of that smell. When there was the smoke it was Acrid, choking — full of cinders. It would settle over the town like a pall. Talk about the pollution! It would settle into your house, on the clothes on the line, — our attic it would settle in soot from 30 years ago, as well might. Most attics here in town. You couldn't escape the soot. On a quiet night you could hear the tick, tick of soot settling long after the train was out of earshot.

As a boy, I'd be awake on hot, muggy summer nights just listening to the trains — thinking about the engineers — wondering where they were going — where they'd be. A westbound freight would start heading for the Stoutsburg crossing two miles east of town. It would chug through town and hup again for the Lunellen Street crossing. West of town the rails curve 30 degrees toward West Trenton. There was the customary whistling for this bend. Sometimes an eastbound freight would pass. Sometimes a freight car.
The resultant schools of whistle whaling would last for many moments until at last the two became distinctly different sounds in the air. You couldn't escape the soot. On a quiet night you could hear the tick, tick of soot settling long
after the train was out of earshot.

There was romance though for young hearts watching a crank passenger train pull out on the high iron. What visions of distant places came to mind, and how we longed to be aboard her.

Sometimes a freight train would drop off a carload or two of coal for Var. Dore's or Hill's in the middle of the day or night for that matter. All this and much screaming and gnashing of brakes.
And to such of sounds, as a freight, now off-loaded and preparing for its onward journey, would pull up the slack between cars. You'd hear crump, crump, crump in rapid succession as the cars pulled tight. Then the spinning of the drive wheel and the sudden letting off of steam as steam was spread on the rails to enable the engine to grab hold of the track. The painful way it did that, and the final picking up of speed as she'd pull away. They were sounds not to be forgotten.

I also remember the first diesel — The Crusader — on her maiden run, going so painfully slow as to be disappointing — about 10 miles an hour to "break her in", we were told. It was new, and modern, and sleek — and we were excited at it.

But it was the beginning of the end of an era.

REAL ESTATE

JUST LISTED

When you have a marvelous house in a wonderful and congenial location, of course you hate to leave it. This unusually well built one and one half story house has four bedrooms (one of which is actually a two room suite) and three full baths plus a lovely living room with fireplace, family room, separate dining room, and bright light modern kitchen. A small screened porch overlooks the heavy woods on the large lot. $83,500

CREAM

with Natural Estrogen and Progesterone

In thirty days, it can help you look younger—or your money back.

Ultra Feminine is the only face cream with natural estrogen and progesterone in this special base. Its lubricants and moisturizers help counteract dryness for a softer, more supple, smoother look.
